Envoys Study DeGaulle Visit

Russians Seen Getting Best Deal

MOSCOW (AP) — Diplomats taking a second look at President Charles de Gaulle's 11-day Soviet visit say he may have helped the Soviets more than they helped him.

De Gaulle returned to Paris Friday after a widely-publicized tour that produced friendly speeches from both sides but little in the way of major political agreement.

The biggest Soviet gain was De Gaulle's decision, even before his arrival here, to withdraw France from the military arm of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, some diplomats said. The Soviets have long sought to break up the alliance and reduce U. S. influence in Europe.

The Russians also reaped dividends from De Gaulle's speeches here and the Communist regime is expected to make use of them to emphasize French support of Soviet policies.

For example, De Gaulle repeatedly described the Soviet Union as a country with peaceful intentions.

He also backed the Moscow line of peaceful coexistence. He did not mention the apparently contradictory policy of Soviet support for Communist-led wars of national liberation such as in Viet Nam.

The French-Soviet accords signed for cooperation in science and space were also seen as Soviet gains.

Although high French sources said they saw no contradiction, there was some question whether the Soviet-French agreements on scientific and technical cooperation might conflict with similar U. S.-French accords.

It was understood that the proposed Soviet launching of a French satellite, for example, would have to wait, until the French can build an entirely French satellite with no American components.

De Gaulle received warm welcomes throughout his tour. But when he sat down for formal discussions he got nowhere on his major proposal for a series of bilateral talks, including Soviet-West German talks, toward easing tensions in divided Europe.

FIRST place winners received cash prizes compliments of Toole Electric Co., Ashville. All winners were presented trophies and each wore corsages or lapel flowers, donated by Lou Deal's Flowers.

Ashville Women's Civic Club sponsored the event under the direction of Mrs. Lowell Cooper.

Judges were Mr. and Mrs. Ben Warring of Hamilton Meadow, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schneemilch of Columbus, Colonel Thomas Markham of Grove City and Miss Madge Wiggins of Columbus.

Highlighting the Saturday's calendar of events will be the Miss Fourth of July Bathing Beauty contest this evening. All entries will ride in the 7 p. m. parade and judging will follow at the park.

Turning in last year's crown will be Diana Cary, Miss Fourth of July; Theresa Chellis, first attendant; and Susan Hoffines, second attendant.

Throughout the weekend a carnival will be in progress at the Community Park with the exception of a 6 p. m. vesper service on Sunday evening. The carnival will close for the program that will be given by the Rev. John Morgan.

Monday's activities will begin with the big winners' parade at 11 a. m., with events scheduled every hour until closing time at 11 p. m. A huge fireworks display will close the 1966 Independence Day celebration at the Ashville Community Park.

"I knew I'd wind up in the hospital because I was very sick," Mrs. Winston said. "I should have been here a month ago, but I couldn't get into this or any other place."

The biggest problem faced by the hospitals is the increased load of paper work. Mt. Sinai added 41 clerks just to handle all the new forms and extra bookkeeping. Other hospitals are also taking on new help.

At St. Joseph's Infirmary in Atlanta, business manager David Messinger recalled that he had spent 20 years in the Air Force as a medical budget officer. He shuffled the forms piled high on his desk and said, "I'm right back home again. I haven't had much sleep in three days. I can't sleep any more, trying to figure out what to do about medicare."

The woman's body was found Thursday night in the basement of the Yoss home near here. Police said she had been shot two or three times.

Equal Hiring Gains Studied

Panel Battles Discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission winds up its first year of work today, buried under a mountain of complaints from minority groups — and women.

It was created July 2, 1965 by the 1964 Civil Rights Act to investigate and settle complaints of job discrimination because of race, nationality, religion or sex.

Geared to handle a predicted 2,000 complaints in its first year, the commission has received more than 8,500 thus far. Of these, a total of 692 cases reached the conciliation stage. Of those cases, only 97 have resulted in nondiscrimination agreements.

But statistics don't tell the whole story, says acting Commission Chairman Luther Holcomb, who has run the panel since the resignation of Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., last May.

Holcomb, in an interview, said he is convinced the commission has "made jobs for thousands of Negroes just by the fact that we're in business."

Of the commission's first-year complaint total of 8,672, only 6,026 were within its jurisdiction.

Of that number, slightly more than 3,000 came from Negroes. In more than 2,000 cases — 33 per cent — sex discrimination was charged. Only 127 complaints cited national origin, and these included 70 complaints by Mexican-Americans.

About 23 per cent of complaints dealt with hiring, 21 per cent with promotion practices, 16 per cent seniority patterns, 13 per cent benefits and 11 per cent wage differentials.

The 692 cases that reached the conciliation stage in the first year involved 209 employers or labor unions. Along with the 97 successful nondiscrimination agreements, there were 60 unsuccessful cases involving 19 employers or unions. Ten cases have been referred to the Justice Department for action.

Mt. Sterling Farm Woman Is Slain

LONDON, Ohio (AP) — One woman was slain and two men were wounded by shotgun blasts on a farm three miles south of Mt. Sterling late Friday, Madison County Sheriff Herbert Markley reported today.

The sheriff identified the dead woman as Mrs. Goldie Little, 33, and the wounded as the victim's husband, Howard, 33, and his brother, Garfield, 20.

The sheriff said he still was investigating the case but added wounds were self-inflicted after his wife and brother were shot.

Howard Little was in serious condition in the hospital here. Garfield Little was treated at the hospital for minor wounds in the hip and then released.

The sheriff said no charges have been filed in the case and that he was investigating a domestic quarrel as possible cause of the shooting.

Commies Down 4 Planes

3 Red Torpedo Boats Are Sunk

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Firing bombs and rockets, U.S. Navy planes sank three North Vietnamese torpedo boats which made a high speed run at an American destroyer, the U.S. command announced today.

Fourteen aircraft from the aircraft carriers Hancock and Constellation took part in the two-hour engagement 38 miles from North Viet Nam's coast Friday.

The planes returned fire after anti-aircraft gunners aboard the Communist craft opened fire. Navy destroyers in the area picked up 19 North Vietnamese survivors.

The torpedo boats are small ships equipped with torpedoes, cannon and heavy machine-guns. Normally they are manned by no more than 15 men.

The enemy gunners damaged one American plane, but the pilot made it back safely to the Constellation.

In another development, the U.S. Command announced that four U.S. planes were lost in various missions over North Viet Nam Friday. This brought to 277 the total number of planes lost north of the 17th Parallel. The loss of one of the planes, an F105 whose pilot was rescued from the sea, was announced Friday. Pilots of the other three planes were sighted parachuting but enemy ground fire thwarted rescue efforts.

Meanwhile, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Viet Nam, told newsmen in Saigon he thinks the war against the Communists is being won. It was his most optimistic public comment on the fighting.

"Six months ago I stated that we had not yet started to win. But certainly at that time we had stopped losing," he said.

"Since then we have a string of victories to our credit, we have increased our forces and military power, and we have

Klansmen's Trial Verdict Held Secret

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—Federal jurors reached a verdict early today in the case of three Ku Klux Klansmen charged by the government with conspiring against the civil rights of Negroes. The verdict was kept a secret.

The jury deliberated about 7½ hours before returning to a U.S. District courtroom and handing its verdict to Judge William A. Bootle.

Bootle read the decision then directed the clerk to seal it in an envelope. He said it would not be announced until after the trial next week of three other Klansmen facing similar charges.

"It would be somewhat difficult," he told the jurors, "to obtain a fair trial (in the second case) if it (the verdict) leaked the defendants, Joseph Howard around."

Bootle said the somewhat unusual secret verdict had been agreed to by attorneys and by Sims, 41; Cecil W. Myers, 26, and George H. Turner, 33.

They and the three other Klansmen to be tried next week are accused by the government of forming "a broad conspiracy" to violate the civil rights of Negroes—including Lemuel A. Penn, the Washington educator shot to death near Athens July 11, 1964.

If found guilty, they could be sentenced to 10 years in prison and fined $5,000 each.

The three to be tried next week are Herbert Gust, 39, James S. Lackey, 30, and Denver Willis Phillips, 26.

Ohio Aviatrix Seeking Records

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. Jerrie Mock, trying for two aviation records, passed over her home state just after dawn today.

The suburban Columbus housewife took off here at 7:50 a.m. EST Friday in her Cessna 206. She reached Albuquerque, N. Mex., 10 hours and 25 minutes later, then turned and headed for Hartford, Conn.

She hoped to land here today and break a nonstop course record for her class of light plane and establish the unclaimed record for nonstop closed course flying for women. Her plotted course is 3,775 miles.

Parents, Officer Are Injured

Family Dog Also Is Victim

DAYTON, O. (AP) An 11-year-old boy is dead and his parents and a policeman wounded as a result of a bloody gun battle at the home of a Dayton factory worker.

The family's German shepherd dog also was slain as it attacked officers during the shooting Friday at the home of Charles Ott Seadars, 44, described by authorities as a "known narcotics violator."

Capt. Grover O'Connor, chief of detectives, said ballistics tests were being made to determine whether Seadars shot his wife and son or whether they were hit by police bullets in an exchange of at least a dozen shots.

The boy, Roger Seadars, was killed by a shot that struck him in the arm and chest. His mother, 44, suffered an abdominal wound. Seadars was hit in the chest and patrolman Phil Sheridan, 50, in the arm.

Seadars was reported in fair condition after surgery. Mrs. Seadars and Sheridan were reported in satisfactory condition. No charges were filed pending the ballistics test and other investigation.

O'Connor said officers were sent to the home after Seadars' mother, Mrs. Stella Aruzsilla, 70, called to report that her son was brandishing a pistol in a quarrel with his wife.

Patrolman Clarence J. Sampson and other officers, including Gary Pence, 23-year-old rookie who joined the force five weeks ago, arrived to find Seadars, his wife, and son seated in the living room.

"He was just sitting there smiling. But then he pulled a gun from between his legs and started firing," Sampson said. About a dozen shots, including six from Seadars' magnum-type weapon, were fired, Sampson estimated.

The officers halted their fire when Seadars yelled that he "had enough." But then, Sampson said, Seadars sicked his dog on the officers.

"I shot and killed it when it came toward me," Sampson said.

Pence said the experience was the first of its kind for him but that he wasn't scared. "There wasn't time to get scared. I was a little shaken after it was all over, though. He was just sitting there, shooting an smiling at the same time."

CARROLLTON, Ohio (AP)—A 16-year-old Carrollton boy accused of the shotgun slaying of his mother faces a hearing today to determine if he will stand trial as a juvenile or as an adult.

The boy, Donald R. Yoss, an only child, is charged, as a delinquent, with first-degree murder in the slaying of his mother, Mrs. Donald Yoss, 34, wife of a Canton construction worker.

The woman's body was found Thursday night in the basement of the Yoss home near here. Police said she had been shot two or three times.

Envoys Study DeGaulle Visit

Russians Seen Getting Best Deal

MOSCOW (AP) — Diplomats taking a second look at President Charles de Gaulle's 11-day Soviet visit say he may have helped the Soviets more than they helped him.

De Gaulle returned to Paris Friday after a widely-publicized tour that produced friendly speeches from both sides but little in the way of major political agreement.

The biggest Soviet gain was De Gaulle's decision, even before his arrival here, to withdraw France from the military arm of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, some diplomats said. The Soviets have long sought to break up the alliance and reduce U. S. influence in Europe.

The Russians also reaped dividends from De Gaulle's speeches here and the Communist regime is expected to make use of them to emphasize French support of Soviet policies.

For example, De Gaulle repeatedly described the Soviet Union as a country with peaceful intentions.

He also backed the Moscow line of peaceful coexistence. He did not mention the apparently contradictory policy of Soviet support for Communist-led wars of national liberation such as in Viet Nam.

The French-Soviet accords signed for cooperation in science and space were also seen as Soviet gains.

Although high French sources said they saw no contradiction, there was some question whether the Soviet-French agreements on scientific and technical cooperation might conflict with similar U. S.-French accords.

It was understood that the proposed Soviet launching of a French satellite, for example, would have to wait, until the French can build an entirely French satellite with no American components.

De Gaulle received warm welcomes throughout his tour. But when he sat down for formal discussions he got nowhere on his major proposal for a series of bilateral talks, including Soviet-West German talks, toward easing tensions in divided Europe.

Seek Advice before Buying Central Air Conditioner

Determining the proper size of air conditioning unit for your home is a job for an expert, says Donald A. Pfost, Ohio State University Extension Agricultural engineer.

This means buyers should consult one or more reliable air conditioning contractors before purchasing, then buy from a reliable firm with a reputation for good service. Your local power supplier representative also is qualified to advise you on the capacity of unit needed.
A rule of thumb often used in determining capacity requirements is one ton for each 500 square feet, Pfost says. This means that a house with 1,500 square feet of floor space will need a 3-ton air conditioner, about the smallest unit that is used in a central air conditioning system.

A slightly undersized system may give greater comfort than an oversized system, the engineer points out, because of better humidity control from a system that operates more of the time.

Operating costs for central air conditioning systems vary, depending on electric rates, family living habits, house construction and other factors, Pfost says. The annual power cost might vary from $30 to $50 for a house equipped with a 3-ton unit, assuming the cost of the electricity at 1½ cents per kilowatt hour.

What about adding air conditioning to an existing forced air heating system? It can be done, Pfost says, but it may not be as satisfactory a system as one installed in a new home, unless the heating system was originally designed for adding air conditioning later.

Exercise Care When Using Herbicides in Hot Weather

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture

Phenoxy herbicides are usually formulated as acids, salts and esters.

Salt and ester formulations usually are supplied as liquid concentrates. The purchaser mixes them before use. The salt concentrates form solutions when mixed with water.

The ester concentrates form solutions when mixed with oil. They form milky white emulsions when mixed with water. Heat causes ester formulations to release vapors. Some release vapors rapidly at about 80 degrees. These are the high-volatile esters. Low-volatile esters do not release vapors rapidly until the temperature is about 90 degrees or higher.

VAPORS from ester formulations can kill susceptible plants growing near the area to which the formulations are applied and damage the other crops. Low-volatile esters are safer — that is, less likely to harm susceptible crops by toxic vapors — than high-volatile esters. Salt formulations are safest — they do not release enough vapors to cause damage.

High volatile esters are less expensive than low-volatile type and they can be used effectively and safely if no susceptible crops are growing nearby.
Ester formulations of the phenoxy herbicides are generally more potent, pound for pound, than salts. They penetrate leaves and other plant surfaces more readily than salts.

When a range of rates is recommended for herbicide application, use the lower rate for esters and the higher rate for salts.

Esters are more effective than salts for killing weeds that are growing slowly because of drought or cold weather. They usually are best for treating weeds in areas of low humidity.

Esters are formulated in oils and remain in moist contact on foliage longer and penetrate better than salts which are mixed with water. And because they are oily, esters are less likely than salts to be washed off foliage if rain falls soon after application.

Leaflets Guide Pesticide Use

Information which will help Ohio dairymen and poultrymen use pesticides safely is contained in two leaflets just published by the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service.

The leaflet for dairymen contains lists of chemicals which can be used safely on animals, in dairy barns, in milk rooms and on pastures and forage crops. The one for poultrymen lists those materials which can be used safely on birds, in poultry houses, and on litter.

Both leaflets also carry lists of pesticides which should not be used.

Copies of the publications are available at the Pickaway County Extension office, 137 W. Franklin St.

America's Real Might Is Seen In Its Monopoly on Food Power

By OVID MARTIN
AP Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has come up with this significant analysis of the world food situation:

"North America today has a near monopoly on the world's exportable supplies of food. The worldwide implications of this fact ought not to be lost."

It has been generally recognized that the United States and Canada have been major sources of food exports, but it is doubtful few had measured and analyzed the situation to come up with the recognition that these two countries hold close to a monopoly on world export supplies.

Certainly this fact sports the arguments of many that these two countries are not making the most of their dominant food supply situation in behalf of world social, political and economic stability. Those who make this claim say the United States is putting too much dependence on military might and not enough on its food power.

The North American position is shown boldly by the prospects that in 1966, it is expected to export 60 million tons of grains, mostly wheat and other food grains this year out of 70 million tons likely to move in world trade.

By comparison, North America exported only 5 million tons out of 25 million tons moved in the 1934-38 period. By 1960, the North American share was 39 million tons out of 45 million sold in foreign trade.

The department calculates that North America could export consistently 100 million tons annually if the world market were large enough. It says:

"Three basic factors underline these dramatic changes in the pattern of world grain trade: The agricultural revolution in North America, the runaway population growth rates in the developing countries, and the near failure of the socialist (bloc) countries to develop viable agricultural sectors."

Most significant changes — changes that spell failure — have taken place in the grain trade situations of Eastern Europe, including the Soviet Union, and Asia. In 1934-38, for example, Eastern Europe exported an annual average of 5 million tons of grains. This year it will import 14 million.

Similarly, Asia which exported an annual average of 2 million tons in the 1934-38 period will import 30 million tons this year.

The trade of Western Europe has changed very little. It will import 23 million tons this year compared with 24 million in the former period.

Latin American exports will be 2 million tons compared with 9 million in the earlier period; Africa will import 3 million tons compared with the export of one million tons, and Oceania (mainly Australian) will export 8 million tons compared with 3 million formerly.

Thus only three regions of the world are in an export supply situation — North America, Latin America and Oceania.

The report makes the significant point that the Soviet Union, the major world political rival of the United States, changed from a ranking exporter in the late 1950s and early 1960s and became a large net importer in 1964. Since then it has been the world's leading importer of wheat. In 1964 more than one third of all wheat entering world trade channels was imported by Communist-bloc countries on a commercial basis.

More than anything else, this change in the Communist position with regard to food has reflected the failure of its agricultural policies to encourage greater production. This failure compared with the great success in the United States undoubtedly is due to the incentive system offered under this country's economic democracy and lacking under communism.

Perhaps, some observers say, this country has not made enough of this contrast in its efforts to influence other countries toward democracy.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — "Alligator Alley," a derogatory name hung on a controversial toll road project across the Florida Everglades, has caught the fancy of an official who'd like to keep it.
"I think it's colorful, especially for northerners," said Broward County Commissioner John D. Easterlin.

"It was dubbed 'Alligator Alley' by those who opposed it," said Easterlin, "and now that it's been called that I like it."

The 77-mile, two-lane toll road, which will connect Fort Lauderdale on the Atlantic Coast of Florida with Naples on the Gulf Coast, is expected to be completed by 1967.

Sharp Tool Needed for Rose Cutting

Be sure to use a sharp tool when cutting rose flowers from the plant, advise Extension Floriculturists at Ohio State University. Breaking or twisting off flowers injures the remaining wood.

Newly planted rose bushes will develop into large bushes by fall, providing you don't cut many of the flowers. But if you do cut flowers the first season, cut them with short stems since removing foliage robs the plant of its food manufacturing capacity. This reduces flower and foliage growth.

Even on older plants, allow two leaves to remain between the cut and the main stem.

If stems on hybrid tea roses are weak, make the cut just above the topmost spray of five leaflets. But if the stem is strong, or the size of a pencil, the cut may be above a higher or three-leaflet spray. Tea roses usually have three leaflets at the top of the stem and a spray of five leaflets just below.

When you don't cut rose blooms, you should remove them from the bush when the petals fall. Cut them just above the topmost leaf. A withered flower should be cut from the cluster to allow remaining flowers room to develop. When all of the flowers of a cluster have withered, then the entire stem above the top leaf should be removed.

Flowers will last longer if you cut them in late afternoon.

ASC Committee Nominees Sought

A call for the "best men available" to serve on the ASC community committees has been issued by Galen D. Mowery, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Community Committee.

States of nominees for membership on ASC community committees are now being established at the ASCS county office.

"The committee system is the backbone of farm programs," chairman Mowery declared. "Its responsibilities include the conservation of natural resources, the stabilization of agricultural commodities, and price-support activities which protect and improve farm income. We need the best possible cross-section of farmers to insure effective administration of the various measures."

In Pickaway County, Mowery explained, many farmers took part last year in one or more programs administered by the ASC committees.

THE CHAIRMAN pointed out that any local resident who is eligible to take part in an ASCS farm program may vote, and he may hold office as a committee member regardless of race, color, creed or national origin. Further information regarding qualifications is available at the ASCS office here.

Those eligible to vote in the community committee elections also have the right to nominate as candidates for committee membership any farmer who is eligible and willing to serve. Such petitions, each one nominating one farmer and signed by six or more eligible voters may be filed at the county office at any time before July 13.

Eligible voters may sign as many petitions as they wish. Additional nominations must be made by the incumbent ASCS community and county committees.

These committees, in their selection of nominees, will make every effort to see to it that their list of candidates reflects the racial composition of farmers of the county.

The election of ASC community committees throughout Pickaway County will be conducted by mail. Ballots must be returned by Aug. 8.

Each community election will choose three community committee members and two alternates. The regular members elected will serve as delegates to the county convention, where farmers will be elected to fill vacancies on the ASC county committee.

Township boundaries of the Pickaway County election are: Circleville, Darby, Deercreek, Harrison, Jackson, Madison, Monroe, Muhlenberg, Perry, Pickaway, Salt Creek, Scioto, Walnut, Washington and Wayne.

Overheating Cuts Quality of Wheat

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Ohio farmers, preparing to harvest a 48 million bushel wheat crop, were cautioned this week to guard against overheating grain in the drying process.

Overheated wheat is inferior in quality, according to Ross Milner, Ohio State University Extension specialist in grain marketing. Baked goods made from flour of overheated wheat will not "rise." Also, the color and texture of such goods are objectionable.

Tests conducted by the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center show that air temperature in dryers, whether on the farm or at the elevator, should not be more than 160 degrees Fahrenheit. Milner said, Wheat should be cooled immediately before storing.

Milner offered several other tips to help farmers improve the quality of their wheat. Combines should be cleaned before the new harvest begins to remove old grain or contamination left by rats, mice, birds and chickens.

MILNER suggested running the combine empty for a brief period before starting to collect the new wheat crop. This will help clean out the machine.

Cleaning and spraying wheat bins also will help improve grain quality, Milner pointed out. He suggested farmers sweep the bins thoroughly, including the walls, and use a vacuum cleaner to remove dust, insects, and insect eggs from cracks in the floors.

After cleaning, bins should be sprayed with either one pound of methoxychlor, 50 per cent wettable powder in 2½ gallons of water; or one pint of malathion, 57 per cent emulsion concentrate in three gallons of water. Rate of application should be one gallon of liquid to each 500 square feet in the bin.

Aid Boosted To Dependent Children

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—About 30,000 checks with a $2 a month per person increase have been mailed by the Ohio Department of Public Welfare to recipients of Aid for Dependent Children.

The increases, amounting to about $5 million a year, went into effect today along with a new law reorganizing the State Welfare Department.

Denver White, state welfare director, said that with the checks went health service cards identifying those ADC recipients who will be eligible for medical services under the Social Security Act.

The checks for recipients in Cuyahoga and Stark counties, will be delayed until next week, White said, at the request of the welfare departments there.

These departments asked for the delay so that the aid payments can be adjusted to distribution of food stamps White said it will not cause any hardships since the ADC checks for these counties ordinarily do not go out until the 10th of the month.

Under the new program, federal food stamp operations were effective Friday in 10 metropolitan areas to five additional benefits to children.

Ohio has about 200,000 recipients of ADC.

No Appeal Granted in Cruelty Case

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Fayette Circuit Judge Joseph J. Bradley turned down an appeal Friday to drop cruelty to animals charges against two Ohio men.

The men were convicted in Lexington Police Court three months ago and fined $100 and costs each. Police said they were carrying 150 dogs in a truck headed for Piqua, Ohio.

A lawyer for Andy Ball Jr., 36, Conover, Ohio, and Donald E. Chamberlain, 28, De Graff, Ohio, asked dismissal of the charges on grounds the lower court had no jurisdiction and charges were changed against the men.

Commonwealth Atty. Donald P. Moloney argued that the men were not present for their police court hearing and that under those circumstances new warrants can be issued.

On arrest, the men were charged with having unlicensed dogs, driving an unlicensed livestock truck and failure to have dogs vaccinated. These were amended later to a charge of cruelty to animals.

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP)—Harold Harper, 26, of Sandusky has been bound over to the Erie County Grand Jury on a charge of second-degree murder in the death of a 30-year-old Sandusky woman.

An information desk was set up on the main floor at Detroit's Henry Ford Hospital, where more than 200 elderly persons came with questions about the program.

One elderly woman insisted a girl behind the counter was wrong when she explained that medicare doesn't cover all expenses. "You're trying to line your pockets with my medicare money," the woman shouted, and swung her purse at the girl.

The girl ducked and the blow glanced off her hairdo. She retreated into a nearby office and the woman stomped out.

"They're generally surprised to learn that everything isn't paid for," said Thelma Cogswell, clinics admitting officer at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston.

She said the clinic patients were used to being "whisked through" the formalities of being checked in. But Friday there were delays because of the medicare forms to be filled out. Miss Cogswell added: "The hardest part at this point is that nothing is cut and dried. If we had been given a few simple rules to follow it would be a lot easier."

By the end of the first day at Massachusetts General Hospital had 941 patients, of whom 260 were over 65 years. During the day the hospital admitted 67 new patients, 18 of them under medicare.

Queen of Angels Hospital in Los Angeles didn't have a single medicare admission until mid-afternoon, when a doctor called to advise he was sending in a male heart patient.

"The hospital census always goes down to rock bottom on July 4," said a hospital spokesman.

Also affecting admissions, he said, was the fact that California put into effect its own program March 1, absorbing early the influx of patients.

Some hospitals reported that a few elderly persons had shown up to "get their medicare." They weren't sick, but they mistakenly thought they had to report to the hospital.

"The people who come in under medicare often are too old and too sick to know about the program," said Alan Transue, credit manager of Research Hospital and Medical Center in Kansas City.

Greek Scientist Claims He Has Found Atlantis

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Atlantis, the lost continent which was mentioned by the ancient Greek philosopher Plato, is back in the spotlight.

Prof. Angelos Galanopoulos of Athens University, a leading seismologist, now believes he has located what may be the site of legendary Atlantis, the flourishing prehistoric city in undated within minutes by one of the great natural catastrophes of history.

He also claims the same catastrophe destroyed Knossos, site of the Minoan civilization of Crete, and also accounted for the same phenomena, described in the Book of Exodus, which enabled Moses and the children of Israel to cross the Red Sea on dry land.

A preliminary survey, including underwater exploration by Greek and American scientists, is to be carried out this fall. It will be the first practical attempt to investigate the theory.

Surveying, to be conducted by scientists from Athens University and the Woods Hole (Mass.) Oceanographic Institute, will involve test excavations at depths up to 60 feet below the surface of the Aegean Sea.

The expedition follows publication of a paper by Galanopoulos in which he develops and defends his thesis that the remnants of Atlantis are awaiting discovery beneath the waters off the Aegean island of Santorini. The island, about 500 miles from the Egyptian Coast, is a favorite of tourists.

According to Galanopoulos, a mighty volcanic explosion, around the 13th century B.C. set off air waves 350 times more powerful than those of a hydrogen bomb and devastated the island.

In recent years, the ruins of three towns have been spotted in waters near Santorini, now a half-circled island surrounding a kind of crater lake — result of the collapse of the central volcanic cone.

Galanopoulos believes one effect of the first stage of the two-act catastrophe was the earthquake that destroyed the Minoan civilization, with the famed labyrinth of the Minotaur at Knossos.

"Volcanic ash would have been carried for hundreds of miles and is the most likely explanation of rivers turning red and fire running along the ground as described in Exodus," the professor says.

"Geographical and climatic changes would account for the ten plagues of hail and locust which afflicted Egypt, that made the exodus possible."

The second stage, perhaps a year later, devastated Santorini (also known as Thira), coinciding with the flight from Egypt: a roof that had been formed over the crater by falling pumice, perhaps 600 to 900 feet thick, collapsed.

The central part of the island, the professor says, an area of 50 square miles, thus became a gigantic cavern.

"A colossal in rush of water," he explains, "drew the sea in tidal waves away from the Egyptian Coast."

According to the Bible, Galanopoulos points out, Moses and his people at the time of their crossing of the Red Sea, were waiting on a coastal strip of Yam Suf, or the Lake of Canes. On today's maps, the crossing is Sebechael Bardawil about 30 miles east of Port Said, Egypt.

"Between them and the next strip of land was a seafilled gap, dry for Moses and his people to cross. But the Lake of Water remained and, as the Bible says there was a wall of water to their right and left.

"The time that elapsed between the dividing of the waters and the backwash that overwhelmed the pursuing Egyptian army would have been about 15 minutes — long enough for Moses and his people to cross but not time enough for the Egyptians," says Galanopoulos.

Overheating Cuts Quality of Wheat

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Ohio farmers, preparing to harvest a 48 million bushel wheat crop, were cautioned this week to guard against overheating grain in the drying process.

Overheated wheat is inferior in quality, according to Ross Milner, Ohio State University Extension specialist in grain marketing. Baked goods made from flour of overheated wheat will not "rise." Also, the color and texture of such goods are objectionable.

Tests conducted by the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center show that air temperature in dryers, whether on the farm or at the elevator, should not be more than 160 degrees Fahrenheit, Milner said. Wheat should be cooled immediately before storing.

Milner offered several other tips to help farmers improve the quality of their wheat. Combines should be cleaned before the new harvest begins to remove old grain or contamination left by rats, mice, birds and chickens.

MILNER suggested running the combine empty for a brief period before starting to collect the new wheat crop. This will help clean out the machine.

Cleaning and spraying wheat bins also will help improve grain quality, Milner pointed out. He suggested farmers sweep the bins thoroughly, including the walls, and use a vacuum cleaner to remove dust, insects, and insect eggs from cracks in the floors.

After cleaning, bins should be sprayed with either one pound of methoxychlor, 50 per cent wettable powder in 2½ gallons of water; or one pint of malathion, 57 per cent emulsion concentrate in three gallons of water. Rate of application should be one gallon of liquid to each 500 square feet in the bin.

Aid Boosted To Dependent Children

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—About 30,000 checks with a $2 a month per person increase have been mailed by the Ohio Department of Public Welfare to recipients of Aid for Dependent Children.

The increases, amounting to about $5 million a year, went into effect today along with a new law reorganizing the State Welfare Department.

Denver White, state welfare director, said that with the checks went health service cards identifying those ADC recipients who will be eligible for medical services under the Social Security Act.

The checks for recipients in Cuyahoga and Stark counties, will be delayed until next week, White said, at the request of the welfare departments there.

These departments asked for the delay so that the aid payments can be adjusted to distribution of food stamps White said it will not cause any hardships since the ADC checks for these counties ordinarily do not go out until the 10th of the month.

Under the new program, federal food stamp operations were effective Friday in 10 metropolitan areas to five additional benefits to children.

Ohio has about 200,000 recipients of ADC.

At the Boston Hospital one woman outpatient refused to produce her red, white and blue card—until she had a chance to go to the ladies room and unpin it from her underwear.

At Ochsner Foundation Hospital in New Orleans, Herbert Leonard, an oil jobber from Ponchatoula, La., said he objected to medicare and wouldn't have signed up if his private insurance company hadn't reduced his hospital coverage due to the federal program. "I still think an American would rather pay his own way," he said.

When medicare went into effect St. Joseph's in Atlanta transferred 50 age-eligible patients to the program. During the day six checked out and three more were admitted.

E.D. Rivers, 70, of Lakeland, Ga., Georgia governor from 1937-40, entered the hospital for a periodic checkup. His admission form bore the green ink stamp "Medicare 65."

"I've been in Social Security for some little bit now," Rivers said. "I paid in a lot of money. They don't put it on the basis of need, but on the basis of right."

Madge English, 72, of Dallas, admitted to Parkland Memorial Hospital at mid-morning for treatment of a broken hip, said of medicare: "It's a wonderful thing. It's God's blessing to the old people."

Dr. Fred Bonte, chief of radiology at Parkland, said, "It's a lot easier than we thought it would be." Five medicare patients were admitted Friday and 82 others in the hospital were automatically transferred.

Said administrator Jack Price: "I'm not surprised at the small number of medicare admissions. After all, old folks don't like to go to the hospital any more than anyone else."

Enduring Principle

A man of few words, Calvin Coolidge, in a telegram to Samuel Gompers on the 1919 Boston police strike, voiced an enduring principle: "There is no right to strike against the public safety by anybody, anywhere, any time."

Since then, in contrast to teachers and transit workers in some big cities, policemen and firemen have generally shown a high degree of public responsibility. They have pressed their demands for wages and improved working conditions without walking off their vital jobs.

An exception to this honorable record was provided by the 500 Atlanta firemen who abandoned their stations in a dispute over wages and hours.

After two days they returned to work under a mediation agreement but meanwhile Atlanta was exposed to potential disaster.

Many states forbid public employee strikes, and on legally sound grounds. But the New York legislature has reached a stalemate in an effort to provide an effective replacement for such a law which has not been enforced.

No one denies that public employees have a right to be heard and a right to equitable treatment. They would, therefore, be better served by their unions if their leaders were to concentrate on obtaining mediation, abandoning the indefensible claim that public employees have the same right to strike as private employees.

heroes. With North Vietnamese swarming in on him and his men, the captain called for air strikes on top of his position. "We might as well take some of them with us."

That decision had to be made by a bigger man than the one who gained fame as the "lonely end." It came from the sum total of the man who is Capt. Carpenter.

Mark of a Hero

Where did Capt. William Carpenter Jr. develop the stuff that heroes are made of? It would be easy to say at West Point, where he was a hero on the football field. Or perhaps his courage was a heritage of his father who was killed in action in World War II. There can be no simple answer. Neither can there be surprise at this story from a battlefield that is full of

Going in Circles Made Him Rich

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — It's hard to get rich going around in circles.

But that's how Francis Barry became a millionaire.

At 58, self-made as any man can be, he is a major power on the New York waterfront. He is the president and chief owner of three shipping companies — the Circle Line, which carries sightseers around Manhattan; the Statue of Liberty ferry, and the famed old Hudson River Day Line.

"Last year our 15 vessels carried about 2½ million passengers," said Barry, not without pride. That's almost three times as many as entered or left the port of New York by sea.

Son of a stevedore who finally achieved an Irish immigrant's dream of glory by buying his own saloon, Barry was born and raised in Hell's Kitchen, where a lad to survive had to be quick on his feet and fast with his fists.

"We never had any money," he said, "but since the neighbors weren't too well-heeled it didn't matter. I suppose we were poor but didn't know it."

"We lived in an old cold-water tenement that's still standing. Every Saturday morning a man would come out of the barber shop downstairs and throw 20 or 30 pennies in the air."

"What a scramble! That was the big day of the week for us kids."

Barry isn't a high school dropout. He never got that far. He reached his educational peak at 13, when he finished parochial school.

"I played Abraham Lincoln in the graduation play, was elected president of the class, and ran the 75- and 100-yard dash," he recalled.

"I had a scholarship to high school but felt I couldn't afford to take it."

Barry, who had been pushing trunks part-time through the clothing district since he was 10, felt he was in clover when he landed a $12-a-week job as a messenger for the U.S. Customs Service.

But 10 years later he had worked up to $100 a month. Neighbors thought he was out of his mind when he left the government payroll to work for a customs brokerage firm.

In a few years, Barry became a partner and then sole owner of one of the largest customs brokerage firms in the nation, representing some 33 steamship lines.

He surprised others in the field by taking in three partners and giving them a 49 per cent interest in the firm.

"It pays to keep good men with you," he remarked. "That's better than having to compete against them."

With several colleagues he founded the Circle Line in 1945 with a 180-foot fishing boat and a war surplus boat. Now he operates 17 vessels.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP) — A slow but steady drop in U.S. gold reserves continues to defy all attempts to plug the drain.

Some of the gold is going to France which prefers the metal to Yankee dollars. Some is lost in the operation of the London gold pool set up to stabilize the world market and control the price of gold. And some of the U.S. Treasury's metal is bought each month by American industry.

The Treasury's stock has dropped by $300 million so far this year and is now around $13.4 billion, the lowest level since September 1938. March, May and June each showed a loss of $100 million in the official reserves. There was no change in April.

But the United States also has an Exchange Stabilization Fund through which its gold transactions with other nations are channeled. At the end of May this fund showed a one month's drop of $86 million to bring the total outflow for the first five months of the year to $224 million. Whether part of the $100 million the Treasury transferred to the fund in June has since left the country won't be reported until the end of July.

France is believed to have turned in about $78 million worth of American dollars in May, representing the surplus it piled up in April. France, and any other nation, is allowed to turn in dollars for U.S. gold at $35 an ounce, plus 8 cents handling fees. American citizens, however, cannot turn in their paper dollars for gold.

But American industry can buy gold from the Treasury, just as it gets part of the silver it needs from this same source. Monthly sales to industry run at $10 million to $15 million. Demand has been fairly steady all this year.

The Treasury also buys gold. Some is new production of mines. Some is bought from other nations. Canada has sold the U.S. Treasury $100 million so far this year, as a gesture of helping this country stabilize the market and hold down its steady losses.

The London pool represents a fluctuating loss. Lately there have been no big speculative runs on the London gold market. But industrial and other world demand for the metal keeps the market fairly active. When demand can't be met by the newly minted metal, the governments making up the pool dip into their reserves and sell to prevent the price of gold from soaring. Just how much American gold is used this way isn't reported.

The uniform of British Boy Scouts will hereafter feature long trousers, it is announced. Since the Scout movement was founded back in 1908, the organization probably figures its too old to keep running around in short pants.

Victims of hemophilia, the royal disease that causes bleeding, have in a most dramatic way been given a new hold on health. An exciting discovery has revealed the substance which, when absent from the blood, interferes with coagulation.

The antihemophilia factor (AHF) was developed by Dr. K.M. Brinkhouse at the University of North Carolina. With Dr. Edward Shanbram, a specialist in blood disease, Dr. F. Thelin, himself a hemophiliac, has been able to extract AHF from blood plasma and preserve it for a long time.

Previously the AHF in blood plasma could only be stored for a short period. Now, in a dried form, AHF can be kept in ordinary refrigeration for more than a year without a change in its value to the hemophiliac. Dr. Thelin is one of the first bleeders to benefit from his own scientific experiments. He has been treated successfully with AHF for two hemorrhages, one in the brain, the other from a peptic ulcer.

Out of these intensive studies of Dr. Thelin and other hemophiliacs comes the possibility of preventing the hemorrhages that threaten the lives of those afflicted with this hereditary malady.

Why is hemophilia called the royal disease?

Intermarriage of closely related cousins happened frequently among many of the royal families of Europe.

The descendants of Queen Victoria of England transmitted the hemophilia characteristic to the royal families of Germany, Spain and Russia.

Each person is born with the dominant and recessive characteristics of his mother, his father and his grandparents. Recessive characteristics tend to diminish with each successive generation. But with close family intermarriages the recessive characteristic of bleeding shows up in hemophilia.

Is there a reason why hemophilia does not occur in women?

Almost always the bleeding tendency of hemophilia occurs in the male. It is practically unknown in the female, even though the hereditary tendency is transmitted through the female. Women may carry the disorder without having any of the symptoms of the disease during her entire life.

Has the life expectancy of the hemophiliac been increased since it was first recognized?

The hemophiliac now has an excellent chance for a long life. Repeated transfusions and the use of the new antihemophilic factor have been made surgery less dangerous to the bleeder.

The local Board of Health can supply immediate antidotes for poisoning if your physician is not immediately available.

Enduring Principle

A man of few words, Calvin Coolidge, in a telegram to Samuel Gompers on the 1919 Boston police strike, voiced an enduring principle: "There is no right to strike against the public safety by anybody, anywhere, any time."

Since then, in contrast to teachers and transit workers in some big cities, policemen and firemen have generally shown a high degree of public responsibility. They have pressed their demands for wages and improved working conditions without walking off their vital jobs.

An exception to this honorable record was provided by the 500 Atlanta firemen who abandoned their stations in a dispute over wages and hours.

After two days they returned to work under a mediation agreement but meanwhile Atlanta was exposed to potential disaster.

Many states forbid public employee strikes, and on legally sound grounds. But the New York legislature has reached a stalemate in an effort to provide an effective replacement for such a law which has not been enforced.

No one denies that public employees have a right to be heard and a right to equitable treatment. They would, therefore, be better served by their unions if their leaders were to concentrate on obtaining mediation, abandoning the indefensible claim that public employees have the same right to strike as private employees.

Mark of a Hero

Where did Capt. William Carpenter Jr. develop the stuff that heroes are made of? It would be easy to say at West Point, where he was a hero on the football field. Or perhaps his courage was a heritage of his father who was killed in action in World War II.

There can be no simple answer. Neither can there be surprise at this story from a battlefield that is full of heroes. With North Vietnamese swarming in on him and his men, the captain called for air strikes on top of his position. "We might as well take some of them with us."

That decision had to be made by a bigger man than the one who gained fame as the "lonely end." It came from the sum total of the man who is Capt. Carpenter.

Going in Circles Made Him Rich

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — It's hard to get rich going around in circles. But that's how Francis Barry became a millionaire.

At 58, self-made as any man can be, he is a major power on the New York waterfront. He is the president and chief owner of three shipping companies — the Circle Line, which carries sightseers around Manhattan; the Statue of Liberty ferry, and the famed old Hudson River Day Line.

"Last year our 15 vessels carried about 2 1/2 million passengers," said Barry, not without pride. That's almost three times as many as entered or left the port of New York by sea.

Views on Television — Radio

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What is it like for an actor to play the same roll on the same set week after week for nine television seasons?

"It can become a crashing, tedious nightmare of a bore," says William Tallman, television's most famous loser.

As Hamilton Burger, the hapless district attorney, Tallman never has won a decision from defense attorney Perry Mason, as played by Raymond Burr. Tallman holds no grudge about having the cards stacked against him in every one of the nearly 300 episodes. But he did confess the mechanics of the series left him benumbed.

"In the first place, I was handed a role that was one-dimensional," he said. "I did my best to keep up my interest by playing the part just a little bit differently each week. But the effort increased as the wells of inventiveness had to be bored deeper and deeper.

"Eventually there was nothing I could do to relieve the boredom. Yet as long as the show was on the air, I never complained publicly. It would have been stupid and graceless for me to do so.

"Besides, I was lucky. Actors search all their lives to find hits, and I was in one. I would have stayed the 10th year if the show had remained on the network, and I think it could have."

His reason was simple: he recently became the father of his sixth child. Also there is the matter of hefty alimony to his first wife.

Having divested himself of his D.A. duties, Tallman now is discovering "there are other fish to fry." His first outside job was a guest starring on "Wild, Wild West." Quite naturally, he plays a loser—a sheriff who gets plugged by an outlaw.

He is mulling other offers and says he would gladly perform in another series. But he confessed he'll probably never find another post as easy as the one in "Perry Mason."

"Usually I came to the studio only for the courtroom scenes," he said. "That meant I only had two days out of the six-day schedule, and when I worked, I really worked. Poor Barbara (Hale) and Hoppie (Bill Hopper) sat around forever to do their scenes. And, of course, Ray Burr was there all the time, faced with endless dialogue."

Original Oil Paintings Plentiful
At Scenic 'Pioneer Acres' Estate

By RICHARD DAVIS

It's not too difficult or expensive to furnish a 14 room home with dozens of interesting antiques and hang original oil paintings on all the walls!

Not difficult, that is, when the home has been in the same family for nearly 125 years and two of the occupants are artists. Difficult or not, Pioneer Acres, home of the Montelius Family in Pickaway Twp., is such a dwelling.

The beautiful country estate, built in 1844 along the banks of Scippo Creek, is one of the most well known homes of his historic nature in this area.

Actually the house itself, which has never been sold since it was built by the Montelius ancestors, is just one of many interesting subjects at Pioneer Acres. The Monteliuses, themselves, are interesting people!

HARRY MONTELIUS, head of the household, and his daughter, Ruth, are rated among the best artists in this area. The 50 plus ribbons and awards they share vouch for this statement.

Miss Montelius, receptionist at the dental offices of Dr. Richard Samuel, is credited with instigating the painting career of her father.

Ruth, who holds a degree in fine arts from Miami University, didn't pursue her own talents in painting until after she was exposed to a great deal of art in college and later while working in advertising at New Orleans.

Around 1950 she encouraged her father to develop his skill, and at the same time she improved her own technique. It wasn't too long before both were graduated from the novice stages.

Today both are recognized as having a very professional approach with their painting. Ruth considers portraits her specialty. Her father concentrates on watercolors.

Mrs. Montelius, the former Evelyn Reid, tried her hand before an easel, but gave up. She now lays claim to being "a critic" for the other two artist members of the family.

MISS MONTELIUS and her father helped organize and charter the Circleville Art League. They continue to hold their membership in the club and frequently enter their work in the organization's shows and competition.

Both have received top awards for their entries here and at Chillicothe. Numerous other laurels include those from the Ohio State Fair and Florida art shows.

Neither of the Montelius artists suffer from a lack of subject matter. They travel extensively throughout the United States and when the opportunity arises they get out their materials and do on-the-spot paintings and sketches. For the most part, however, color slides are taken on their trips and used later should they want to paint a particular scene.

They have traveled all over the eastern and western parts of the country. One of their favorite spots is the Florida Keys.

Their travels have taken them to Bermuda and Canada. Ruth and an aunt also toured Europe a couple of years ago.

The elder Montelius, whose health forced him to quit college after completing almost four years towards a degree in electrical engineering at the University of Michigan, has talents in other fields, too. In addition to his status as an artist, he's an avid craftsman.

SOME of the antique furniture in the huge brick home has been "worked over" by the professional hand of Mt. Montelius. He also has several pieces of furniture that he made himself.

Miss Montelius finds time outside her profession at the dentist's offices to teach an art class. At one time she had her own studio in the downtown area and taught as many as three classes per week.

Now her studio is in a basement room at Pioneer Acres where her students can feel free to fling the oils and watercolors.

As in the case of most artists, homes, there are drawers and closets full of paintings done over the years. The market for local artists' wares is limited. The only opportunity to display paintings is through public exhibits conducted by the art league.

One such exhibit is coming up later this month when Circleville merchants hold their annual "Old Fashioned Sidewalk Sales."

During this one-day event, a touch of Greenwich Village is created in front of the May residence on the corner of Court and Mound Sts., when the art league presents its sidewalk show.

Other times during the year the public can view paintings by the Montelius duo and other local artists at the County Fair, Pumpkin Show and regularly scheduled showings in the Courthouse lobby.

Beauty, Brutality Blend On Beautiful Bali Island

DEN PASAR, Bali (AP) — Legendary Bali is but one of Indonesia's 3,000 islands, but it is a world by itself. Its volcanoes rise from the sea and disappear in perpetual mists at their tops.

Little has changed beneath the surface in Bali for centuries. The cities, of course have cars and the people wear dresses, slacks and shoes, but in the countryside women still pad on bar feet to the river each evening for water, a graceful black water pot balanced on their heads.

Women still prefer not to cover their breasts, despite continued — but halfhearted — efforts by the Bali government.

On the slopes of Gunung Agung, the sacred and still smoking volcano that killed thousands when it exploded in 1963, the farmers have gone back to their houses. Their homes are rebuilt along slopes that have for centuries been covered with ash and lava from the frequent eruptions.

Balinese men and women, both wearing sarongs, gather

Details on the July 14 "Sidewalk Sale" will be one of the key reports when Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce directors meet Tuesday at Pickaway Arms.

Also slated for discussion will be the Chamber sponsored Industrial Display scheduled at the Pickaway Fair Aug. 1-6. Additional reports will come from spokesmen for the Airport, Program, Public Relations and Membership Committees.

The luncheon meet will begin at 11:45 a. m.

daily in the temple courtyards to prepare offerings for the gods. Rice and fish are wrapped in leaves and tied artistically with strips of palm. Flowers are woven into patterns and palm leaves are twisted into delicate designs, all for the gods.

Bali is truly the island of the gods. Temples rise throughout its lush, jungle or rice-covered mountains. They are ancient, yet new, for the temples are a continuing culture to the Balinese.

Unlike the faith of most of the rest of Indonesia, the Balinese religion is not Moslem but a mixture of Hinduism, Animism and Balinese culture. For the Balinese, the spirits and the gods are intensely real. Yet, oddly enough, few gods are on display at temples. Small chairs erected for gods are always empty. For they are believed to live on the surrounding volcanoes.

The outward serenity of Bali belies the people's fierce independence. The Dutch colonized the Indonesian islands in the 16th century, but did not establish a foothold in Bali until 1914, and only after heavy battles.

After the attempted coup by the Communist party last Oct. 1, Bali's Communists were hunted down and killed by the thousands, perhaps as many as 10,000 in less than two months.

The political unrest continues and has cut tourist trade.

This is Bali, the island where beauty, color and brutality blend into one.

Ohio Power
Faces Strike
By 4 Locals

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—A top official of the Utility Workers Union of America (UWUA) says four union locals will strike the Ohio Power Co. here "in a week to 10 days" unless progress is made in contract negotiations.

Wag negotiations are underway between the utility and the four locals which represent 537 workers in two operating divisions and three power plants in Ohio and West Virginia.

"Unless there is a decided change," said William R. Mungler of Dayton, UWUA national vice president, "there's nothing left to do but strike the company."

He added that the locals involved received strike authorization Wednesday.

The company has offered members of one local a 14.96-cent hourly increase in wages and benefits, but the local has asked a 15-cent hourly wage increase plus benefits.

Original Oil Paintings Plentiful
At Scenic 'Pioneer Acres' Estate

By RICHARD DAVIS
It's not too difficult or expensive to furnish a 14 room home with dozens of interesting antiques and hang original oil paintings on all the walls!
Not difficult, that is, when the home has been in the same family for nearly 125 years and two of the occupants are artists. Difficult or not, Pioneer Acres, home of the Montelius Family in Pickaway Twp., is such a dwelling.

The beautiful country estate, built in 1844 along the banks of Scippo Creek, is one of the most well known homes of his historic nature in this area.

Actually the house itself, which has never been sold since it was built by the Montelius ancestors, is just one of many interesting subjects at Pioneer Acres. The Monteliuses, themselves, are interesting people!

HARRY MONTELIUS, head of the household, and his daughter, Ruth, are rated among the best artists in this area. The 50 plus ribbons and awards they share vouch for this statement.

Miss Montelius, receptionist at the dental offices of Dr. Richard Samuel, is credited with instigating the painting career of her father.

Ruth, who holds a degree in fine arts from Miami University, didn't pursue her own talents in painting until after she was exposed to a great deal of art in college and later while working in advertising at New Orleans.

Around 1950 she encouraged her father to develop his skill, and at the same time she improved her own technique. It wasn't too long before both were graduated from the novice stages.

Today both are recognized as having a very professional approach with their painting. Ruth considers portraits her specialty. Her father concentrates on watercolors.

Mrs. Montelius, the former Evelyn Reid, tried her hand before an easel, but gave up. She now lays claim to being "a critic" for the other two artist members of the family.

MISS MONTELIUS and her father helped organize and charter the Circleville Art League. They continue to hold their membership in the club and frequently enter their work in the organization's shows and competition.

Both have received top awards for their entries here and at Chillicothe. Numerous other laurels include those from the Ohio State Fair and Florida art shows.

Neither of the Montelius artists suffer from a lack of subject matter. They travel extensively throughout the United States and when the opportunity arises they get out their materials and do on-the-spot paintings and sketches. For the most part, however, color slides are taken on their trips and used later should they want to paint a particular scene.

They have traveled all over the eastern and western parts of the country. One of their favorite spots is the Florida Keys.

Their travels have taken them to Bermuda and Canada. Ruth and an aunt also toured Europe a couple of years ago.

The elder Montelius, whose health forced him to quit college after completing almost four years towards a degree in electrical engineering at the University of Michigan, has talents in other fields, too. In addition to his status as an artist, he's an avid craftsman.

SOME of the antique furniture in the huge brick home has been "worked over" by the professional hand of Mt. Montelius. He also has several pieces of furniture that he made himself.

Miss Montelius finds time outside her profession at the dentist's offices to teach an art class. At one time she had her own studio in the downtown area and taught as many as three classes per week.

Now her studio is in a basement room at Pioneer Acres where her students can feel free to fling the oils and watercolors.

As in the case of most artists, homes, there are drawers and closets full of paintings done over the years. The market for local artists' wares is limited. The only opportunity to display paintings is through public exhibits conducted by the art league.

One such exhibit is coming up later this month when Circleville merchants hold their annual "Old Fashioned Sidewalk Sales."

During this one-day event, a touch of Greenwich Village is created in front of the May residence on the corner of Court and Mound Sts., when the art league presents its sidewalk show.

Other times during the year the public can view paintings by the Montelius duo and other local artists at the County Fair, Pumpkin Show and regularly scheduled showings in the Courthouse lobby.

Beauty, Brutality Blend On Beautiful Bali Island

DEN PASAR, Bali (AP) — Legendary Bali is but one of Indonesia's 3,000 islands, but it is a world by itself. Its volcanoes rise from the sea and disappear in perpetual mists at their tops.

Little has changed beneath the surface in Bali for centuries. The cities, of course have cars and the people wear dresses, slacks and shoes, but in the countryside women still pad on bar feet to the river each evening for water, a graceful black water pot balanced on their heads.

Women still prefer not to cover their breasts, despite continued — but halfhearted — efforts by the Bali government.

On the slopes of Gunung Agung, the sacred and still smoking volcano that killed thousands when it exploded in 1963, the farmers have gone back to their houses. Their homes are rebuilt along slopes that have for centuries been covered with ash and lava from the frequent eruptions. Balinese men and women, both wearing sarongs, gather daily in the temple courtyards to prepare offerings for the gods. Rice and fish are wrapped in leaves and tied artistically with strips of palm. Flowers are woven into patterns and palm leaves are twisted into delicate designs, all for the gods.

Bali is truly the island of the gods. Temples rise throughout its lush, jungle or rice-covered mountains. They are ancient, yet new, for the temples are a continuing culture to the Balinese.

Unlike the faith of most of the rest of Indonesia, the Balinese religion is not Moslem but a mixture of Hinduism, Animism and Balinese culture. For the Balinese, the spirits and the gods are intensely real. Yet, oddly enough, few gods are on display at temples. Small chairs erected for gods are always empty. For they are believed to live on the surrounding volcanoes.

The outward serenity of Bali belies the people's fierce independence. The Dutch colonized the Indonesian islands in the 18th century, but did not establish a foothold in Bali until 1914, and only after heavy battles.

After the attempted coup by the Communist party last Oct. 1, Bali's Communists were hunted down and killed by the thousands, perhaps as many as 10,000 in less than two months.

The political unrest continues and has cut tourist trade.

This is Bali, the island where beauty, color and brutality blend into one.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Passes Will Drive Him Away

DEAR ABBY: I had a speaking acquaintance with an attractive, but shy, man for two years. He is 37 and I am 26. He has never asked me out, but whenever we'd meet at a church doings or on the street he seemed glad to see me. About a year ago I got my nerve up and called him on the telephone just to talk. I couldn't get him to say much. About a month later I heard that he was joining the religious life. My heart broke.

After 10 months I heard that he was back home and had to give up the religious life because of illness. I wrote him a letter, welcoming him home, and invited him to a small party. He wrote back and declined. I want so much to know him better. How long should I wait before I start in again? I'd give anything to get him interested in me.

Court Clerk Sues County Commission

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Lake County Clerk of Courts Guy J. McDermott has sued county commissioners to obtain $43,000 more in operating funds after a two-year dispute over cutting of his budget requests.

The suit filed Friday in the 7th District Court of Appeals at Youngstown requested a mandamus directing commissioners to "exercise their reasonable, unobusive discretion for an appropriation. . . having a reasonable relation to the work load."

McDermott's request for $86,050 for salaries this year was cut to $33,630 by a 2-1 vote of commissioners.

Commissioners Robert D. Fulton and John D. Hadden, who like McDermott are Democrats, voted to cut the budget. They have criticized McDermott's operations.

Supporting the request was Republican Commissioner Howard B. Beebe.

McDermott told commissioners in March he was in danger of losing more than half of his employees if a pay raise was not provided.

Reams Says GOP Lacks Pollution Program

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—State Sen. Frazier Reams Jr. has attacked the Republican state administration for having "no pollution control program."

The Democratic candidate for governor, speaking here Friday night, noted that a hearing on pollution problems of the Maumee River has been rescheduled for Sept. 22, and a similar hearing for Lake Erie was reset for Nov. 30.

The Rhodes Administration was a month late in submitting a schedule for cleaning up Lake Erie. Now it is evident that they are going to be several months late in setting water quality criteria," Reams said.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Glessner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Russell Glessner, Mansfield, O., and Dr. Henry Edward Akers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Goebel P. Akers, Williamsport, exchanged wedding vows 3:30 p. m. June 25 in the Park Ave. Baptist Church, Mansfield.

Rev. D. Glenn Orr performed the double ring ceremony. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of delustered satin designed with a fitted bodice and long tapered sleeves. The full skirt featured a pyramid pleat in front and fell into a chapel length train, accented with a bow.

The bodice and skirt were enhanced with motifs of Alencon lace re-embroidered with seed pearls and angel sequins. Her triple tier veil of silk illusion was held with self fabric rose petals and leaves accented with pearls.

Mrs. Leslie Palkuti, Columbus, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. David Dunning, Columbus; Mrs. Willis Lehnhart, Lucas; Mrs. Ronald Baker, Chicago, Ill.; and Mrs. David Crawford, Circleville, sister of the bridegroom.

Misses Denise and Deanna Crawford, Circleville, twin nieces of the bridegroom, were flower girls. Mr. Franklin L. Aker, Williamsport, served as the best man. Ushers were Mr. Willis E. Lehnhart, Lucas; Mr. David Crawford; Dr. Thomas Barrett, Tiffin; Mr. Robert Glessner Jr., cousin of the bride, and Mr. Harold Stanley.

A buffet supper reception was held at the church. Hostesses were Mrs. Charles Eaton and Mrs. Robert Glessner, aunts of the bride; Mrs. Doris Enoch; Mrs. Phillip Linne and Miss Joan Jurgens, cousin of the bride.

After the wedding trip to Pompano Beach, Fla., the couple will reside at 465 West Cook Road. The new Mrs. Akers, holder of a bachelor degree in education, is affiliated with the Alpha Delta Pi. She is employed as a biology teacher at John Simpson Junior High School.

Dr. Akers, a veterinarian, conducts his practice in Mansfield. The bridal party was entertained 10:30 a. m. Saturday for a brunch at the Westbrook Country Club, hosted by Mrs. W. R. Mabey and Mrs. Ronald Baker.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Passes Will Drive Him Away

DEAR ABBY: I had a speaking acquaintance with an attractive, but shy, man for two years. He is 37 and I am 26. He has never asked me out, but whenever we'd meet at a church doings or on the street he seemed glad to see me. About a year ago I got my nerve up and called him on the telephone just to talk. I could n't get him to say much. About a month later I heard that he was joining the religious life. My heart broke.

After 10 months I heard that he was back home and had to give up the religious life because of illness. I wrote him a letter, welcoming him home, and invited him to a small party. He wrote back and declined. I want so much to know him better. How long should I wait before I start in again? I'd give anything to get him interested in me.

DEAR NEEDS: If you were

Court Clerk Sues County Commission

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Lake County Clerk of Courts Guy J. McDermott has sued county commissioners to obtain $43,000 more in operating funds after a two-year dispute over cutting of his budget requests.

The suit filed Friday in the 7th District Court of Appeals at Youngstown requested a mandamus directing commissioners to "exercise their reasonable, unadvised discretion for an appropriation... having a reasonable relation to the work load."

McDermott's request for $86,050 for salaries this year was cut to $53,630 by a 2-1 vote of commissioners.

Commissioners Robert D. Fulton and John D. Hadden, who like McDermott are Democrats, voted to cut the budget. They have criticized McDermott's operations.

Supporting the request was Republican Commissioner Howard B. Beebe.

McDermott told commissioners in March he was in danger of losing more than half of his employees if a pay raise was not provided.

Reams Says GOP Lacks Pollution Program

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—State Sen. Frazier Reams Jr. has attacked the Republican state administration for having "no pollution control program."

The Democratic candidate for governor, speaking here Friday night, noted that a hearing on pollution problems of the Maumee River has been rescheduled for Sept. 22, and a similar hearing for Lake Erie was set for Nov. 30.

The Rhodes Administration was a month late in submitting a schedule for cleaning up Lake Erie. Now it is evident that they are going to be several months late in setting water quality criteria," Reams said.

to ask me how to drive a man away forever, I'd advise you to do exactly what you have done so far in your efforts to attract this man. Don't make any more overtures. It takes two to tango, and apparently this man doesn't care to dance. And if he ever decides to try, he will want to pick his own partner.

DEAR ABBY: After working for a very competent physician for 12 years I have observed that the average citizen acquires his "M.D." with more speed and less expense than the best doctor. In our office we get hourly calls from patients who say, "I have a virus, please have the doctor come up on my lunch hour and give me a shot."

Abby, what is this country needs is a side-walk booth, operated on the same principle as a cigarette machine. The patient would deposit coin, stick his arm in slot, select the "medication", and get his shot. People wonder "what has become of the good, old fashioned family doctor?" Well, what has become of the good, old fashioned, trusting patient who let the doctor diagnose the case and prescribe the treatment?

A N.R.N.

DEAR R.N. I have a message for the physician who would permit his patient to diagnose and prescribe. "Physician, heal thyself."

DEAR ABBY: I had a mild discussion with my wife because she insists on referring to me as HIM while conversing with others. Example: "Before I married HIM." I have to remind her many times that my name is HARRY, not him.

I think it shows a lack of respect to use HIM and HER instead of the person's given name. I will be very much interested in your comments. Thank you.

HARRY, NOT HIM

DEAR HARRY: I agree with you. If your wife's problem is a short memory, remind her which name is on your paycheck.

Youngstown Youth Wins Junior Crown

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) —

Ralph Colla of Youngstown has defeated two-time state high school champion Yank Heisler of Ravenna to become the new Mid-America Junior Golf Tournament champion.

Colla's 2 and 1 victory Friday came after he had gone one down to Heisler after 18 holes of the 36-hole match. He drew even on the first hole of the second round, went ahead on the third, and stayed ahead the rest of the way.

It Was Bad Night for Sandy Koufax

15th Victory Is Denied Bum Hurler by Cards

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was a bad night for Sandy Koufax.

Al Jackson grabbed his spotlight, Claude Raymond snatched his earned run crown and Woody Fryman stole his thunder.

Koufax, aimed for victory No. 15 and the halfway point of a potential 30-victory season, went down to his third defeat as the Los Angeles Dodgers bowed to Jackson and the St. Louis Cardinals 2-0 Friday night.

Jackson grabbed the spotlight with a six-hitter — he allowed only one base runner to reach second — despite the fact the Dodger left-hander allowed one less hit. But one of the hits off Koufax was Mike Shannon's two-run homer, and that was that.

The two runs allowed by Koufax also raised his earned run average to 1.60 and let Raymond sneak in to the National League leadership with a 1.56 mark after preserving Houston's 2-1, 12-inning victory over Cincinnati with a scoreless inning of relief work.

Fryman, meanwhile, turned in the night's best performance by pitching a one-hitter in Pittsburgh's 12-0 victory over the New York Mets, facing the minimum 27 batters and hurling perfect ball after Ron Hunt stroked a leadoff single in the first inning.

Another strong pitching effort was made by Philadelphia's Larry Jackson, who checked the Chicago Cubs on eight hits, but it was anything but a pitchers' night at San Francisco, where the Giants downed Atlanta 9-5 in a game interrupted for 11 minutes by fog.

In the American League, Cleveland blanked California 5-0, the Chicago White Sox edged Boston 2-1 in 13 innings, the New York Yankees belted Washington 8-6, Baltimore swept Minnesota 4-1 and 2-0 and Kansas City downed Detroit 6-4 after the Tigers took the opener 8-5.

Koufax came up a loser in the seventh inning when Orlando Cepeda singled and Shannon followed with his fifth homer. Oddly, it was Koufax' third loss at home — he is 8-0 on the road and 6-3 in Dodger Stadium — but the Dodgers have been able to get him only one run in the trio of defeats.

Unbeaten Mike Cuellar, seeking victory No. 7, allowed the Reds only three hits until Raymond took over the Astros' pitching chores in the 12th. He had it easy, Houston scoring in the bottom of the inning on Bob Aspromonte's single and a double by Bob Lillis.

Hunt got the only hit off Fryman with a bouncer up the middle that just lured shortstop Gene Alley. Hunt then was thrown out stealing and the 23-year-old rookie southpaw did not allow another Met to reach base in bringing his record to 6-3.

The Pirates lashed 18 hits, including homers by Jose Pagan, Bill Mazeroski and Donn Clendenon, in winning their sixth straight.

The Phillies' Jackson got all the support he needed to beat his former Cub teammates from Bill White, who hit a homer, singled in another run and scored twice.

The fog lifted at Candlestick Park in time for every one to see the Braves hand the Giants the game in the eighth inning after building a 5-4 lead.

A wild pitch by Ted Abernathy let Don Landrum score the tying run and an error by Woody Woodward let Willie McCoy cross with the go-ahead run.

The Braves then presented the Giants with three more runs on a bases-loaded walk issued by Chi Chi Olivo and another error by Woodward.

Sudden Sam Returns to Win Column

CLEVELAND (AP)—As if in a hurry to re-establish his credentials, Cleveland's Sam McDowell shut out the California Angels Friday night, fanning 13 batters in his long-awaited 13th appearance.

It took the Indians two hours and 11 minutes to subdue the Angels, 5-0, on Sudden Sam's two-hitter.

The 13 strikeouts boosted the southpaw's total to 108 for the season and tied him with teammate Gary Bell for the nine-inning high this year.

The victory over the Angels gave Sam his first complete victory since May 1 and his first victory at all since June 11.

He has been sidelined off and on since May 25 with a sore left arm.

"It hurts like a son-of-a-gun," McDowell said in the locker room Friday night as Leon Wagner led the trumpeting that made the dressing room sound like a band practicing in a high school gym.

"It didn't hurt while I was pitching," McDowell said. "It did between innings though, and it aches now. It stiffened up in the sixth inning and batters were standing in there, knowing I didn't have my best pitch."

Columbus Splits Pair with Bisons

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Jacksonville Suns would be just as happy if the rest of their International League schedule were played on a Friday-only basis.

A 7-6 victory Friday night over the Rochester Red Wings ran the Sun's Friday record to 9-3.

The front-running Columbus Jets whipped the Buffalo Bisons 6-1 in the second game of a double-header after losing the opener 2-0.

The Toronto Maple Leafs took over fourth place with 5-4 and 10-6 victories over the Toledo Mud Hens. The last-place Syracuse Chiefs edged the Richmond Braves 4-3 in 10 innings.

Lou Carnesecca's St. John's University basketball team compiled an 18-8 mark in his first season as coach. He succeeded retired Joe Lapchick.

Mickey Tied In Women's Open Tourney

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The name of the game is putting, and that could cause jitters for co-leaders Mickey Wright and surprising Sandra Spuzich as the United States Women's Open golf championship moves into the third round today.

Four-time champion Miss Wright and Miss Spuzich, an Indianapolis pro without a circuit victory in four years, were tied at 149 to pace a field of 34 pros and 10 amateurs by two strokes at Hazeltine National Golf Club.

Runnersup at 151 were defending champion Carol Mann and veteran pro Clifford Ann Creed. A foursome was knotted at 152, including the leading amateur, new collegiate champ Joyce Kazmierski of Michigan State, 1963 Open champion Mary Mills and pros Sharon Miller and Peggy Wilson.

"I never quite played a round like this," said Miss Wright after she three-putted five greens and used 38 putts in all for a 78 Friday. Mickey had opened Thursday with the only subpar round, a 71, thus far posted over the 4-year-old Hazeltine course.

In the second division of the Challenge Stakes scheduled as the fifth race, Speedy Star, a bay son of Speedster, drew the coveted pole position with driver Lou Huber.

The veteran Curly Smart will take the handsome son of Florin, Monte Hill postward for the Hill Distributing Co. of Columbus. The powerful Farrington stable of Richmond, Ohio has Florence's Pride in this division, and Dick Buxton will half of the purse, or $5,500. The trophy will go to the horse trotting the fastest mile in either division.

Last year this division produced Egyptian Candor winner of the Hambletonian trotting stake, and this year of the 16 entries, seven are eligible to the premier trotting stake at Du Quoin, Illinois on Sept. 1.

In the first division of the Challenge Stakes, scheduled as the third race tonight, Lincoln Land Tad from the Lincoln Land Farm of Sherman, Ill., holds the slight pre-race nod over Egyptian Song from the George Conner stable of Columbus.

Herbert Scotch, owned by Ralph Stopp and Toyn Williams of Wilmington, and driven by Eddie Boyer, won the 2-year-old division of the Challenge Stakes last year. The trotting horse man from Sunbury, Jim Edwards has the highly regarded Candy Spirits in the first division, and L. E. Geer of Newark will send L. G. Diplomat postward. Lou Huber will rein Speedy Miles for owner R. D. Ricketts of Houston, Texas, and Jim Fleming will be in the sulky for owner Sam Coil of Washington C. H. behind Duce's Wild.

In the second division of the Challenge Stakes scheduled as the fifth race, Speedy Star, a bay son of Speedster, drew the coveted pole position with driver Lou Huber.

The veteran Curly Smart will take the handsome son of Florin, Monte Hill postward for the Hill Distributing Co. of Columbus. The powerful Farrington stable of Richmond, Ohio has Florence's Pride in this division, and Dick Buxton will challenge with Pat Hanover for owner Dr. J. P. West of Madison, Wisconsin.

Sam Coil of Washington C. H., Ohio has one of the top contenders in this division with Gay Sam, a strong-legged son of Sampson Hanover who took a mile mark as a 2-year-old of 2:05 2-5. Bruce Nickells makes his initial 1966 start at Scioto with Blaze Hope, a chancy son of the 1960 Hambletonian winner, Blaze Hanover.

Jim Hackett will take Speedy C into the gate, attempting to gain his second Challenge Stakes trophy this year for owner Samuel Huttenbauer of Cincinnati. This winning combination won the 4-year-old trotting division for the third straight year with Be Sweet two weeks ago.

Complimenting the outstanding Saturday night nine race program is the co-featured $4,000 Invitational Pace, and Hideaway Pat, the brilliant brown stallion, owned by Harlow Arledge of Circleville, will defend his honors against five outstanding challengers including David Ray, Scotch Rickey, Bank Time, Irish T, and Whirlwind Pick.

Reined by "Big Jim" Arledge, Hideaway Pat scored in 2:00 4-5 last Saturday night.

The ninth race Saturday night is a $2500 Preferred Trot, and La Belle Helene driven by Dick Buxton, and Fortune Tiller reined by Lou Huber will battle such trotting stallions as Dick Hackett's Gig Hudson, Mudgets Tommy, Kahiki and Dreaming Lee.

There was no Babe Ruth League or Pony League baseball for youngsters in 1945. Last year 248,000 played in those two leagues.

"On this Independence Day pledge to do your share as an American"

A message from the President about how you can help build peace and preserve prosperity with U.S. Savings Bonds.

On this anniversary of our Nation's birth, most of us are enjoying a holiday from work and the cares of the world.

But even while we celebrate Independence Day there is no real holiday from responsibility. We must go on with the work of building peace, enlarging our prosperity, guarding against inflation and recession.

They are being carried on today by Americans just like you, all across this country and across the world.

I appeal to you today to join these guardians of democracy. I ask you to invest a few dollars each month in the front lines of battle for a stronger America and a safer world.

Put a small part of your prosperity into U.S. Savings Bonds. The $25 Bonds cost $18.75, but they are more than a bargain. They are a wise investment. The new higher interest rate means that the Bonds that you buy and own earn more money. They are easier to acquire and manage than most other investments you can have. You can buy them automatically just by signing up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Buy a Bond every month and help to guarantee your own future security. You will also help to guarantee the security of your country.

If only half of the 70 million employed Americans bought just one $25 Savings Bond a month for only one year or even an extra Bond a month they would meet most of the special costs of the struggle that we are making for peace in Vietnam this year.

So I ask you to think about that as you go about freely enjoying this holiday. Think about how much more meaningful your enjoyment would be if you could honestly say, "I have pledged to do my share as an American. I will buy U.S. Savings Bonds on a regular monthly basis."

It was a bad night for Sandy Koufax.

Al Jackson grabbed his spotlight, Claude Raymond snatched his earned run crown and Woody Fryman stole his thunder.

Jackson grabbed the spotlight with a six-hitter — he allowed only one base runner to reach second — despite the fact the Dodger left-hander allowed one less hit. But one of the hits off Koufax was Mike Shannon's two-run homer, and that was that.

The two runs allowed by Koufax also raised his earned run average to 1.60 and let Raymond sneak in to the National League leadership with a 1.56 mark after preserving Houston's 2-1, 12-inning victory over Cincinnati with a scoreless inning of relief work.

Fryman, meanwhile, turned in the night's best performance by pitching a one-hitter in Pittsburgh's 12-0 victory over the New York Mets, facing the minimum 27 batters and hurling perfect ball after Ron Hunt stroked a leadoff single in the first inning.

Another strong pitching effort was made by Philadelphia's Larry Jackson, who checked the Chicago Cubs on eight hits, but it was anything but a pitchers' night at San Francisco, where the Giants downed Atlanta 9-5 in a game interrupted for 11 minutes by fog.

In the American League, Cleveland blanked California 5-0, the Chicago White Sox edged Boston 2-1 in 13 innings, the New York Yankees belted Washington 8-6, Baltimore swept Minnesota 4-1 and 2-0 and Kansas City downed Detroit 6-4 after the Tigers took the opener 8-5.

Koufax came up a loser in the seventh inning when Orlando Cepeda singled and Shannon followed with his fifth homer. Oddly, it was Koufax' third loss at home — he is 8-0 on the road and 6-3 in Dodger Stadium — but the Dodgers have been able to get him only one run in the trio of defeats.

Unbeaten Mike Cuellar, seeking victory No. 7, allowed the Reds only three hits until Raymond took over the Astros' pitching chores in the 12th. He had it easy, Houston scoring in the bottom of the inning on Bob Aspromonte's single and a double by Bob Lillis.

Hunt got the only hit off Fryman with a bouncer up the middle that just lured shortstop Gene Alley. Hunt then was thrown out stealing and the 23-year-old rookie southpaw did not allow another Met to reach base in bringing his record to 6-3.

The Pirates lashed 18 hits, including homers by Jose Pagan, Bill Mazeroski and Donn Clendenon, in winning their sixth straight.

The Phillies' Jackson got all the support he needed to beat his former Cub teammates from Bill White, who hit a homer, singled in another run and scored twice.

The fog lifted at Candlestick Park in time for every one to see the Braves hand the Giants the game in the eighth inning after building a 5-4 lead.

A wild pitch by Ted Abernathy let Don Landrum score the tying run and an error by Woody Woodward let Willie McCovey cross with the go-ahead run. The Braves then presented the Giants with three more runs on a bases-loaded walk issued by Chi Chi Olivo and another error by Woodward.

Youth Baseball At Halfway Mark

The Circleville Youth Baseball program has reached the halfway point.

Four weeks of action have been completed. Four more remain, plus three days in August.

Five teams in the program are undefeated. In the Babe Ruth League, General Electric has six straight wins. Koehheiser in the Pony loop has five consecutive wins.

In the Little League Minors IOOF owns a 7-0 slate. In the Mosquito League Hill Implement and K of C stand neck and neck with four wins and no losses.

The Little League Majors, the only league without an undefeated squad, is owned by The Herald Hawks, who stand 6-1.

Here is the schedule for next week. There are no games on July 4th.

Tuesday — Third National Bank vs Savings Bank, 5:15 p. m., main diamond, Ted Lewis Park; Kiwanis vs Lindsey, 7:30 p. m., main diamond, Ted Lewis Park; Logan Elm vs GE, 5:15 p. m., Babe Ruth 1 diamond, Fairgrounds; Blocks vs Hills, 5:15 p. m., Atwater diamond, K of C vs Circleville Lumber, 5:15 p. m., S. Court St. diamond.

Wednesday — Coca-Cola vs Bingmans, 7:30 p. m., main diamond, Ted Lewis Park; Circleville Oil vs Blue Ribbon, 5:15 p. m., Little League diamond, Ted Lewis Park; Cocks vs Archers, 5:15 p. m., Atwater diamond.

Thursday — Koehheiser vs DuPont, 5:15 p. m., main diamond, Ted Lewis Park; Purina vs Elks, 7:30 p. m., main diamond, Ted Lewis Park; IOOF vs Second National, 5:15 p. m., Little League diamond, Ted Lewis Park; Ankron Lumber vs Mac's, 5:15 p. m., Atwater diamond; Pickaway Dairy vs Prairie Lions, 5:15 p. m., S. Court St. diamond.

Friday — Wards vs Third National, 5:15 p. m., main diamond, Ted Lewis Park; Herald vs American Legion, 7:30 p. m., main diamond, Ted Lewis Park; Rotary vs Savings Bank, 5:15 p. m., Little League diamond, Ted Lewis Park.

The 13 strikeouts boosted the southpaw's total to 108 for the season and tied him with teammate Gary Bell for the nine-inning high this year.

The victory over the Angels gave Sam his first complete victory since May 1 and his first victory at all since June 11. He has been sidelined off and on since May 25 with a sore left arm.

"It hurts like a son-of-a-gun," McDowell said in the locker room Friday night as Leon Wagner led the trumpeting that made the dressing room sound like a band practicing in a high school gym.

"It didn't hurt while I was pitching," McDowell said. "It did between innings though, and it aches now. It stiffened up in the sixth inning and batters were standing in there, knowing I didn't have my best pitch."

Columbus Splits Pair with Bisons

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Jacksonville Suns would be just as happy if the rest of their International League schedule were played on a Friday-only basis.

A 7-6 victory Friday night over the Rochester Red Wings ran the Sun's Friday record to 9-3.

The front-running Columbus Jets whipped the Buffalo Bisons 6-1 in the second game of a double-header after losing the opener 2-0.

The Toronto Maple Leafs took over fourth place with 5-4 and 10-6 victories over the Toledo Mud Hens. The last-place Syracuse Chiefs edged the Richmond Braves 4-3 in 10 innings.

Lou Carnesecca's St. John's University basketball team compiled an 18-8 mark in his first season as coach. He succeeded retired Joe Lapchick.

Mickey Tied In Women's Open Tourney

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The name of the game is putting, and that could cause jitters for co-leaders Mickey Wright and surprising Sandra Spuzich as the United States Women's Open golf championship moves into the third round today.

Four-time champion Miss Wright and Miss Spuzich, an Indianapolis pro without a circuit victory in four years, were tied at 149 to pace a field of 34 pros and 10 amateurs by two strokes at Hazeltine National Golf Club.

Runnersup at 151 were defending champion Carol Mann and veteran pro Clifford Ann Creed. A foursome was knotted at 152, including the leading amateur, new collegiate champ Joyce Kazmierski of Michigan State, 1963 Open champion Mary Mills and pros Sharon Miller and Peggy Wilson.

"I never quite played a round like this," said Miss Wright after she three-putted five greens and used 38 putts in all for a 78 Friday. Mickey had opened Thursday with the only subpar round, a 71, thus far posted over the 4-year-old Hazeltine course.

half of the purse, or $5,500. The trophy will go to the horse trotting the fastest mile in either division.

Last year this division produced Egyptian Candor winner of the Hambletonian trotting stake, and this year of the 16 entries, seven are eligible to the premier trotting stake at Du Quoin, Illinois on Sept. 1.

In the first division of the Challenge Stakes, scheduled as the third race tonight, Lincoln Land Tad from the Lincoln Land Farm of Sherman, Ill., holds the slight pre-race nod over Egyptian Song from the George Conner stable of Columbus.

Herbert Scotch, owned by Ralph Stopp and Toyn Williams of Wilmington, and driven by Eddie Boyer, won the 2 year old division of the Challenge Stakes last year. The trotting horse man from Sunbury, Jim Edwards has the highly regarded Candy Spirits in the first division, and L. E. Geer of Newark will send L. G. Diplomat postward. Lou Huber will rein Speedy Mules for owner R. D. Ricketts of Houston, Texas, and Jim Fleming will be in the sulky for owner Sam Coil of Washington C. H. behind Duce's Wild.

In the second division of the Challenge Stakes scheduled as the fifth race, Speedy Star, a bay son of Speedster, drew the coveted pole position with driver Lou Huber.

The veteran Curly Smart will take the handsome son of Florikan, Monte Hill postward for the Hill Distributing Co. of Columbus. The powerful Farrington stable of Richwood, Ohio has Florence's Pride in this division, and Dick Buxton will

"On this Independence Day pledge to do your share as an American"

A message from the President about how you can help build peace and preserve prosperity with U.S. Savings Bonds.

On this anniversary of our Nation's birth, most of us are enjoying a holiday from work and the cares of the world.

But even while we celebrate Independence Day there is no real holiday from responsibility. We must go on with the work of building peace, enlarging our prosperity, guarding against inflation and recession.

They are being carried on today by Americans just like you, all across this country and across the world.

I appeal to you today to join these guardians of democracy. I ask you to invest a few dollars each month in the front lines of battle for a stronger America and a safer world.

Put a small part of your prosperity into U.S. Savings Bonds. The $25 Bonds cost $18.75, but they are more than a bargain. They are a wise investment. The new higher interest rate means that the Bonds that you buy and own earn more money. They are easier to acquire and manage than most other investments you can have. You can buy them automatically just by signing up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Buy a Bond every month and help to guarantee your own future security. You will also help to guarantee the security of your country.

If only half of the 70 million employed Americans bought just one $25 Savings Bond a month for only one year or even an extra Bond a month they would meet most of the special costs of the struggle that we are making for peace in Vietnam this year.

So I ask you to think about that as you go about freely enjoying this holiday. Think about how much more meaningful your enjoyment would be if you could honestly say, "I have pledged to do my share as an American. I will buy U.S. Savings Bonds on a regular monthly basis."

Lyndon B. Johnson

Youngstown Youth Wins Junior Crown
MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Ralph Colla of Youngstown has defeated two-time state high school champion Yank Heisler of Ravenna to become the new Mid-America Junior Golf Tournament champion.

Colla's 2 and 1 victory Friday came after he had gone one down to Heisler after 18 holes of the 36-hole match. He drew even on the first hole of the second round, went ahead on the third, and stayed ahead the rest of the way.

MAKING HAY, THE OLD-FASHIONED WAY—Most of hay made by farmers today is baled or chopped in the field. In the Amish communities of Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and Pennsylvania, however, hay still is made the old-fashioned way with the old-fashioned hay loader. S. L. Schwartz, Adams County, Indiana, is on the right of the wagon. A son, John, is at the left, and another son, Walter, is almost buried in the hay as he drives the team.

California Girl Holds U.S. Hope in Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Billie Jean King—slimmer and tenser—tried today to save the face of United States tennis and keep the Wimbledon singles titles from becoming an all-Lat-in triumph.

The Long Beach, Calif., player met Maria Bueno of Brazil in the final of the women's singles with the memory of Friday's men's final victory of Manuel Santana of Spain to spur her on. Santana beat her fellow-Californian, Dennis Ralston.

It was Maria's fifth Wimbledon final. She won in 1959-60 and 1964, and lost to Margaret Smith of Australia last year. It was Billie Jean's second. Her previous final brought defeat, also at the hands of Margaret Smith, three years ago. She got revenge for that Thursday, defeating Miss Smith in two easy sets.

Neither Billie Jean nor Maria can say exactly how often they have met. Billie Jean says "about eight times and we're level." Maria says "About seven times and I've just got the edge."

If their meeting today comes up to the men's final between

Santana and Ralston, it will make the 80th Wimbledon championships a tournament to remember.

Santana and Ralston, in a display of elegant stroke play, strong serving and rapier-like driving, gave the crowd one of the most memorable finals since World War II.

Not since the last European, Jaroslav Drobný, won in 1934, has the center court crowd roared so loud as when Santana, the cheerful and relaxed Spaniard, finally defeated Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., 6-4, 11-9, 6-4.

The 1966 Wimbledon has also been memorable for being the first tournament for 11 years without an Australian in either the men or women's finals.

The last Aussie representative in the men's singles was Owen Davidson, beaten by Santana in the semifinals.

The men's doubles final after the girls have finished today will be an all-Australian affair between Ken Fletcher and John Newcombe, and Davidson and Bill Bowrey.

In the women's doubles the top seeded Australians, Miss

Smith and Judy Tegart play Maria Bueno and Nancy Richey of Dallas, Tex., while in the mixed doubles, Fletcher and Miss Smith play the U. S. pair of Ralston and Mrs. King.

Medicarees Taken Out Of Hospital

CORINTH, N.Y. (AP)—Eight elderly patients were ordered evicted Friday from a tiny community hospital, because federal officials said the hospital did not meet standards for the new government medicare program.

The two other patients at the Adirondack Regional Hospital in this village near Saratoga Springs also were over 65 and covered by medicare but were permitted to remain because they are heart patients who cannot be moved, Dr. Bruce Scidmore, head of the hospital, said.

The eight were considered well enough to go home until other accommodations could be found, he said.

The health insurance agencies that had been paying their bills automatically dropped coverage, with the advent of medicare at midnight. Thus, the eight, aged 67 to 87, could not afford to remain. The medicare program will pay for the critical ones, aged 70 and 78, until they can be moved.

Dr. Scidmore told a reporter he hoped the people would approve a bond issue before the end of July for improvements in the 30-bed, wood and brick hospital.

Social Security officials decided that too many of the hospital beds were in the old, wood portion, which is not fire proof.

Disputed Tilt Rescheduled

A disputed Mosquito League game between Block's Shoes and Circleville Lumber, played Tuesday night, has been rescheduled Aug. 2.

Both managers lodged protests. The two scorebooks showed different tallies.

Mosquito League managers felt under the circumstances it would be impossible to determine the winner.

A resolution was adopted by managers that an official scorekeeper be appointed for the rescheduled game between the two teams, in addition to securing three umpires.

Three-time National League batting champion Roberto Clemente of the Pittsburgh Pirates has batted .314 or better the last six seasons. He began with the Pirates in 1955 after having been drafted from the Dodgers Montreal farm team.

MAKING HAY, THE OLD-FASHIONED WAY—Most of hay made by farmers today is baled or chopped in the field. In the Amish communities of Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and Pennsylvania, however, hay still is made the old-fashioned way with the old-fashioned hay loader. S. L. Schwartz, Adams County, Indiana, is on the right of the wagon. A son, John, is at the left, and another son, Walter, is almost buried in the hay as he drives the team.

California Girl Holds U.S. Hope in Wimbledon

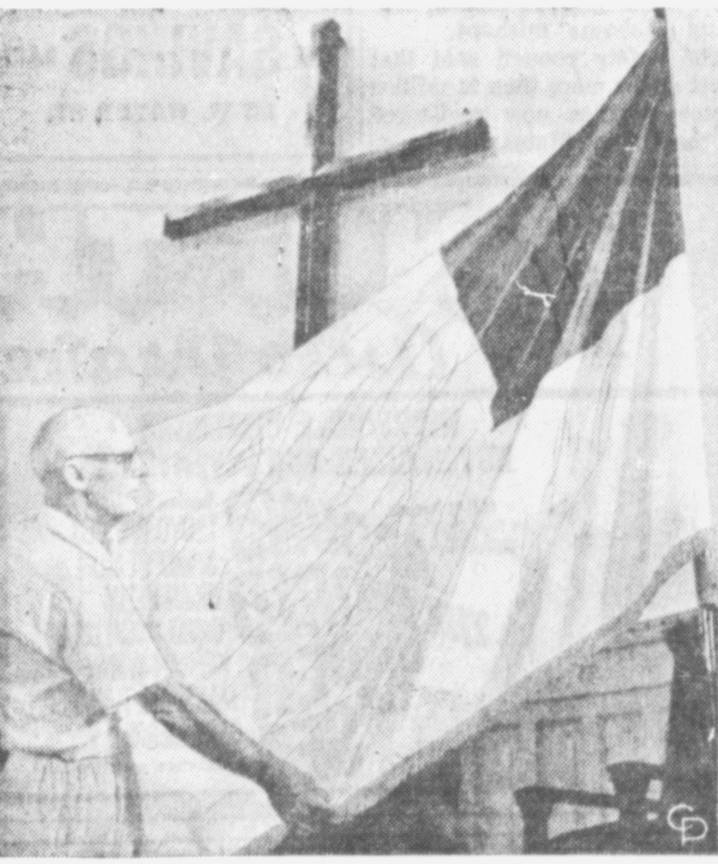

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Billie Jean King—slimmer and tenser—tried today to save the face of United States tennis and keep the Wimbledon singles titles from becoming an all-Lat-in triumph.

The Long Beach, Calif., player met Maria Bueno of Brazil in the final of the women's singles with the memory of Friday's men's final victory of Manuel Santana of Spain to spur her on. Santana beat her fellow-Californian, Dennis Ralston.

It was Maria's fifth Wimbledon final. She won in 1959-60 and 1964, and lost to Margaret Smith of Australia last year. It was Billie Jean's second. Her previous final brought defeat, also at the hands of Margaret Smith, three years ago. She got revenge for that Thursday, defeating Miss Smith in two easy sets.

Neither Billie Jean nor Maria can say exactly how often they have met. Billie Jean says "about eight times and we're level." Maria says "About seven times and I've just got the edge."

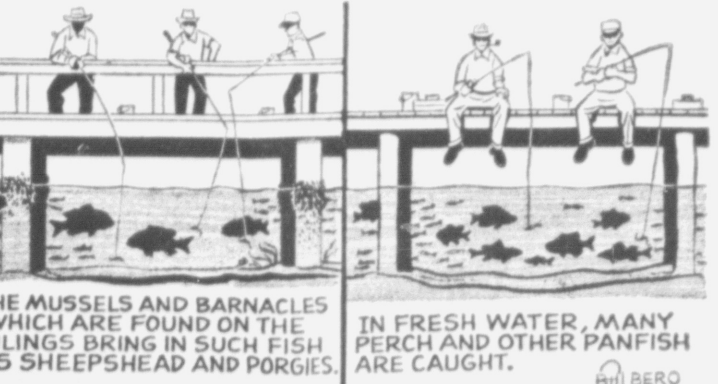

If their meeting today comes up to the men's final between

Medicarees Taken Out Of Hospital

CORINTH, N.Y. (AP)—Eight elderly patients were ordered evicted Friday from a tiny community hospital, because federal officials said the hospital did not meet standards for the new government medicare program.

The two other patients at the Adirondack Regional Hospital in this village near Saratoga Springs also were over 65 and covered by medicare but were permitted to remain because they are heart patients who cannot be moved. Dr. Bruce Seidmore, head of the hospital, said.

The eight were considered well enough to go home until other accommodations could be found, he said.

The health insurance agencies that had been paying their bills automatically dropped coverage, with the advent of medicare at midnight. Thus, the eight, aged 67 to 87, could not afford to remain. The medicare program will pay for the critical ones, aged 70 and 78, until they can be moved.

Dr. Seidmore told a reporter he hoped the people would approve a bond issue before the end of July for improvements in the 30-bed, wood and brick hospital.

Social Security officials decided that too many of the hospital beds were in the old, wood portion, which is not fire proof.

Disputed Tilt Rescheduled

A disputed Mosquito League game between Block's Shoes and Circleville Lumber, played Tuesday night, has been rescheduled Aug. 2.

Both managers lodged protests. The two scorebooks showed different tallies.

Mosquito League managers felt under the circumstances it would be impossible to determine the winner.

A resolution was adopted by managers that an official scorekeeper be appointed for the rescheduled game between the two teams, in addition to securing three umpires.

Three-time National League batting champion Roberto Clemente of the Pittsburgh Pirates has batted .314 or better the last six seasons. He began with the Pirates in 1955 after having been drafted from the Dodgers Montreal farm team.

Rejected 4F Viet Fighter Heads Home

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—David Stucki, the 4F San Francisco computer operator who changed places with a soldier to fight in Viet Nam, returns home today.

Stucki, 21, boarded a jet in Tokyo for San Francisco.

State Department officials in Washington said they had no plans to prosecute Stucki, who went to Viet Nam 11 days ago posing as a soldier.

He took the place of Pvt. John A. Jones, 19, of Knoxville, Tenn. His father, Virgil Stucki, an Oakland dentist, said his son borrowed the soldier's uniform and travel orders "out of a misguided sense of compassion."

Jones met Stucki at a San Francisco party. The soldier had accompanied the body of a soldier back to the United States. Jones reported the ruse and was flown back to Viet Nam last week.

The city-county hospital's business office reported today that 15 of 26 admitted patients were enrolled under Medicare.

A spokesman for the hospital noted that 14 persons 65 and older were patients there when Medicare became effective Friday. These persons were enrolled for Medicare and were automatically transferred to the new program roster.

Three eligible patients were admitted Friday. One entered the hospital early today.

Some Dems Fear War in Viet Nam To Have Adverse Political Effect

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some veteran Democrats in the House, worried over the political effects of the Viet Nam war, fear the party may lose substantially more than the off-year average of 37 seats in November's elections.

Although most are keeping quiet publicly, they admit privately they are worried not only about their own prospects but about the chances of the 63 Democrats who were elected in 1964 with less than 55 per cent pluralities.

"Everybody is hoping Viet Nam will go away by November," said one long-term House member this week. "But it won't and we're going to be stuck with the consequences."

Another, asked if he agreed with estimates that the Democrats may lose 20 to 50 seats, replied: "If every place is like my district, we've lost twice that many."

Along with the increased bombing of North Viet Nam, the results of Tuesday's New York primary had a sobering effect on congressmen who hope the war will have minimal effect on balloting.

Rep. Leonard Farbstein, a Democrat and an administration supporter, finally was declared the victor by 151 votes after a close race with an opponent who favored immediate peace in Viet Nam. Two other veteran Democratic congressmen, Reps. Edna Kelly and Abraham J. Multer, had close calls against candidates who were outspoken doves on Viet Nam.

In a suburban Westchester County district, a Negro pacifist polled more than 40 per cent of the Democratic vote against the organization nominee. The district now is represented by Republican Rep. Ogden R. Reid.

Many freshmen Democrats have not been reluctant to talk about Viet Nam at home. They couple general support for the administration with an emphasis on the need for early settlement—and hope for some dramatic turn of events by November.

But others in states such as New York, New Jersey and California are mapping plans for campaigns substantially a part from the national Democratic party in order to minimize the impact of Viet Nam.

Southern Democrats seem less concerned about Viet Nam. "My people are mainly worried about Negroes," said one. Another reported that during a 30-minute television interview last week all but five minutes was devoted to the proposed ban on housing discrimination in the administration's civil rights bill.

Viet Nam is not the only thing troubling some of the Democrats in marginal seats. They are worried about the dangers of inflation and they fear that if the medicare program that started Friday reveals serious hospital shortages, voters may blame them.

The House is the major battleground in the 1966 election because even substantial GOP gains in the Senate would leave it firmly in Democratic hands.

The House now has 294 Democrats, 139 Republicans and two vacancies. But a Republican gain of about 30 seats would wreck the Democrats' working majority, since many Southern Democrats line up with the Republicans on many key votes.

Republicans need 79 new seats to gain House control—compared with 80 they gained in their record off-year gain in 1938.

Shortly before noon yesterday, a gasoline truck owned by Ned Dresbach and a truck owned by the Stewart Funeral Home Co. of Bremen collided at Route 56 and the Tarlton-Adelphi Road.

Clarence M. Brigner, 53, Ashville, driver of the gasoline truck sustained abrasions and contusions of the arm. His truck was demolished, officers said.

Robert W. Cupp, Logan, was cited for failure to yield the right of way. Deputy Sheriff George Linder said Cupp's vehicle pulled from the Tarlton-Adelphi Road into the path of Brigner's truck.

The Tarlton Volunteer Fire Department was called to standby in case of an explosion while the gas truck was being removed from the scene.

Another accident was investigated at 5 p. m. Friday. Deputy Sheriff said an automobile operated by William F. Blankenship, 27, Columbus, pulled from a private drive on Walnut Creek Pike into the path of a northbound motorcycle driven by Emerson Huffines, 49, Ashville. Huffines' wife, Gladys, was a passenger on the cycle.

The cycle riders were taken to Berger Hospital where they were treated for lacerations and abrasions.

Rejected 4F Viet Fighter Heads Home

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—David Stucki, the 4F San Francisco computer operator who changed places with a soldier to fight in Viet Nam, returns home today.

Stucki, 21, boarded a jet in Tokyo for San Francisco.

State Department officials in Washington said they had no plans to prosecute Stucki, who went to Viet Nam 11 days ago posing as a soldier.

He took the place of Pvt. John A. Jones, 19, of Knoxville, Tenn. His father, Virgil Stucki, an Oakland dentist, said his son borrowed the soldier's uniform and travel orders "out of a misguided sense of compassion."

Jones met Stucki at a San Francisco party. The soldier had accompanied the body of a soldier back to the United States. Jones reported the ruse and was flown back to Viet Nam last week.

Some Dems Fear War in Viet Nam To Have Adverse Political Effect

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some veteran Democrats in the House, worried over the political effects of the Viet Nam war, fear the party may lose substantially more than the off-year average of 37 seats in November's elections.

Although most are keeping quiet publicly, they admit privately they are worried not only about their own prospects but about the chances of the 63 Democrats who were elected in 1964 with less than 55 per cent pluralities.

"Everybody is hoping Viet Nam will go away by November," said one long-term House member this week. "But it won't and we're going to be stuck with the consequences."

Another, asked if he agreed with estimates that the Democrats may lose 20 to 50 seats, replied: "If every place is like my district, we've lost twice that many."

Along with the increased bombing of North Viet Nam, the results of Tuesday's New York primary had a sobering effect on congressmen who hope the war will have minimal effect on balloting.

Rep. Leonard Farbstein, a Democrat and an administration supporter, finally was declared the victor by 151 votes after a close race with an opponent who favored immediate peace in Viet Nam. Two other veteran Democratic congressmen, Reps. Edna Kelly and Abraham J. Multer, had close calls against candidates who were outspoken doves on Viet Nam.

In a suburban Westchester County district, a Negro pacifist polled more than 40 per cent of the Democratic vote against the organization nominee. The district now is represented by Republican Rep. Ogden R. Reid.

Many freshmen Democrats have not been reluctant to talk about Viet Nam at home. They couple general support for the administration with an emphasis on the need for early settlement—and hope for some dramatic turn of events by November.

But others in states such as New York, New Jersey and California are mapping plans for campaigns substantially a part from the national Democratic party in order to minimize the impact of Viet Nam.

Southern Democrats seem less concerned about Viet Nam. "My people are mainly worried about Negroes," said one. Another reported that during a 30-minute television interview last week all but five minutes was devoted to the proposed ban on housing discrimination in the administration's civil rights bill.

Viet Nam is not the only thing troubling some of the Democrats in marginal seats. They are worried about the dangers of inflation and they fear that if the medicare program that started Friday reveals serious hospital shortages, voters may blame them.

The House is the major battleground in the 1966 election because even substantial GOP gains in the Senate would leave it firmly in Democratic hands.

The House now has 294 Democrats, 139 Republicans and two vacancies. But a Republican gain of about 30 seats would wreck the Democrats' working majority, since many Southern Democrats line up with the Republicans on many key votes.

Republicans need 79 new seats to gain House control—compared with 80 they gained in their record off-year gain in 1958.

Auto Accident Mars Ashville Fourth of July Celebration

Pickaway County's first serious traffic accident of the Fourth of July holiday weekend occurred in Ashville Friday night. Three men were hospitalized as the result of a head-on collision.

Listed in "critical" condition in University Hospital, Columbus, is Phillip Sheridan, 22, stationed at Lockbourne Air Force Base with the 840th Air Police. Suffering massive head injuries, he first was taken to Lockbourne Air Base Hospital and then transferred to University.

Admitted to the Air Base Hospital for treatment of serious facial lacerations was Donald Sack, 22. He was a passenger in the car driven by Sheridan.

Arthur H. Morgan, 65, Ashville, was taken to Mercy Hospital. Authorities there reported he suffered a fractured right knee. He was the driver of the other automobile involved.

Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff and Ashville Police Chief Glenn Clay investigated.

Radcliff reported Sheridan's auto was left of center when the accident occurred. The sheriff said the driver apparently had been drinking.

Although the accident is still under investigation, Sheridan has been cited for driving left of center. Additional charges may be filed later, the sheriff indicated.

Shortly before noon yesterday a gasoline truck owned by Ned Dresbach and a truck owned by the Stewart Burial Vault Co. of Bremen collided at Route 56 and the Tarleton-Adelphi Road.

Clarence M. Brigner, 53, Ashville, driver of the gasoline truck sustained abrasions and contusions of the arm. His truck was demolished, officers said.

Robert W. Cupp, Logan, was cited for failure to yield the right of way. Deputy Sheriff George Linder said Cupp's vehicle pulled from the Tarleton-Adelphi Road into the path of Brigner's truck.

The Tarleton Volunteer Fire Department was called to standby in case of an explosion while the gas truck was being removed from the scene.

Another accident was investigated at 5 p. m. Friday. Deputies said an automobile operated by William F. Blankenship, 27, Columbus, pulled from a private drive on Walnut Creek Pike into the path of a northbound motorcycle driven by Emerson Huffines, 49, Ashville. Huffines' wife, Gladys, was a passenger on the cycle.

The cycle riders were taken to Berger Hospital where they were treated for lacerations and abrasions.

Blankenship was cited by Deputy Linder for failure to yield the right-of-way.

3 Red . . .

"We have a long way to go but, without question, the enemy is taking bitter losses and suffering both physically and psychologically."

Asked if he would say "we have now begun to win," Westmoreland replied, "Yes." He declined to elaborate.

The naval battle took place 60 miles outside the port of Haiphong in international waters. It began when Communist patrol boats closed in at high speeds on U.S. ships patrolling the area, the Navy said.

The incident recalled the attack by three torpedo boats on the destroyer Maddox in the Gulf of Tonkin in August 1964. The destroyer evaded torpedoes fired by the craft, which the Navy said came from North Viet Nam, and President Johnson ordered retaliatory air strikes against North Viet Nam.

The 1964 attack led Congress to give Johnson a mandate "to take all necessary measures in support of freedom, and in defense of peace, in Southeast Asia." This became known as the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution and still serves as the mandate for Johnson to conduct the war.

In the city of Da Nang, South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky predicted that the people of North Viet Nam will overthrow the Communist government there very soon.

He made the statement in answer to a newsman's question and said he does not have any specific intelligence reports to reinforce his prediction. He also declined to place a time limit on the predicted overthrow.

Asked why he made the statement, he said: "Because we are anti-Communist."

Ky was in Da Nang to present South Vietnamese military decorations to almost 80 American officers and enlisted men.

State Patrolmen To Be Breathing Down Your Neck

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—If you're a motorist and plan to be out driving this holiday week end, best be careful.

An Ohio Highway Patrolman, or a local law enforcement officer will be "breathing down your neck" wherever you drive.

Many hundreds of officers, including the entire personnel of the patrol, will be out on the highways to continue the most severe crackdown on traffic law violations in the state's history.

Highway patrolmen actually started the crackdown last Sunday and since then have made thousands of arrests under a new policy of not issuing warnings, but arresting the violator on the spot. Patrol officials believe this paid off in the Memorial Day weekend, when only 15 fatalities were reported during that holiday against 32 predicted deaths.

Any hope for a deathless July 4 weekend on Ohio highways was dashed Friday night, about three hours after the 78-hour holiday period got under way. Two Harrison County men were killed when their car crashed off a highway about 10 miles west of Cadiz. Seat belts were installed but not in use, and the State Highway Patrol blamed the accident on excessive speed.

Killed were the driver, John Hayward Sterling, 32, and his passenger, Lawrence E. Virtue, both of Topedale, Ohio.

The accident so early in the weekend renewed the concern of the state's highway safety officials that 33 persons will die on Ohio's streets and highways. Ohio with 40 traffic deaths had one of the nation's highest tolls last July 4.

The National Safety Council estimates that between 510 and 610 persons will die in auto accidents over the holiday weekend.

A grim prelude to the council's prediction came in Alabama, where 24 persons died in a 24-hour span just before the weekend cut began.

The toll of victims included 11 Negro migrant farm workers who were killed when the converted school bus in which they were riding went over an embankment near Ozark in the southern part of the state.

Two accidents near Huntsville killed a total of 10 persons while three other persons died in separate Alabama mishaps.
